Wheeler Dealers

Q. We recently took two foster children into our home, a girl, 7, and a boy, 9. These children have not had very much in their lives. They didn't have any extra clothes when they came and we have had to buy quite a lot. The boy would like a Stingray bike and shoe roller skates for Christmas and the girl also wants shoe skates and a bike. We have overextended our budget on the essentials. Can ACTION LINE help me get these Christmas gifts wholesale? M.S., Long Beach.

A. Millard B. Hudson, owner of Naples Cycle Shop, 5544 E. Second St., has agreed to sell you two good used bicycles at a greatly reduced price. And Dana Brown, owner of Brownie's Toy Store, 5308 E. Second St., will give you a wholesale price on two pairs of shoe skates.

Flag Day

Q. I am a fifth grade teacher in the ABC School District. We are interested in doing a unit on the proper respect for the American flag. Where can I obtain some pamphlets which give flag laws and regulations? B.A., Long Beach.

A. A pamphlet, "Our Flag," will be sent to you by Dr. Nathan Brodsky of the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense. The pamphlet tells the story of the Stars and Stripes, gives flag laws and describes how to display the flag. Further copies can be obtained for 25 cents each from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. The order number is 90th House Document 165. Leon Van Der Wyk, vice president for Hortie-Van Flag Manufacturing Co., said he has a limited number of pamphlets on flag etiquette which he will be glad to donate to you. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Hortie-Van, 1930 E. Walnut St., Pasadena, Calif. 91107. Your school can also borrow a 28-minute film entitled "Old Glory" from the Ft. MacArthur film library. The film traces the evolution of the American flag, from 1607 when the English flag, the Cross of St. George, flew over Jamestown to today's Stars and Stripes. For more information, call 831-7039 in San Pedro.

Dinner Donor

Q. My husband and I would like to invite two Navy men stationed in Long Beach to our Christmas dinner. How we can go about this? L. W., Long Beach, and others.

A. A program to give a taste of Christmas to servicemen away from home is being sponsored again this year by the Long Beach Armed Services YMCA. However, a spokesman at the Y says the program is well stocked with willing families, and in fact has more requests such as yours than it can handle. "We usually rely on a file of families who have proved helpful and kind in the past. We appreciate volunteers, but it is difficult to check them out and make as sure as we can that the servicemen will have an enjoyable time." He says a few unpleasant situations in the past have made the Y wary to expand the program unless the demand increases greatly. If you do want to volunteer, contact the Y, HE 6-9604.

Handclasp

Q. We are trying to get a load of books to a mission school in Sao Paulo, Brazil. We heard about Project Handclasp operated by the Navy. How can we contact Project Handclasp in the Midwest? C. C., Notre Dame, Ind.

A. There is no Project Handclasp office in the Midwest, said a navy spokesman in Long Beach. The Navy has major project depots in San Diego and in Norfolk, Va. For shipping goods to South and Central America and Europe, contact Project Handclasp, Building Y-188, Naval Supply Center, Norfolk, Va. 23512. You may specify your gifts for a particular mission, orphanage or hospital if you make prior arrangements with the Navy. Project Handclasp is the Navy's people-to-people program. It was started in 1949 by a handful of Navy men as a volunteer program. Since then, the program has mushroomed into a Navywide activity.

Here's a Shocker

Q. Where is a class given in the repair of small appliances? T. C., Long Beach.

A. Long Beach City College extension offers a class in electrical equipment repair. However, a spokesman for the electronics department said the class is basically designed for people already working in the trade. For further information, consult a counselor at the Business and Technology Campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Highway, 599-2421. ACTION LINE also talked with Chet Johnson, owner of Catfish Electric & Appliance, 3701 E. Anaheim St. He said he would be willing to give on-the-job training to you if you are sincerely interested in going into home appliance repairing as a career. Johnson said he is an electronics instructor for the Navy Reserve and has a lot of repair textbooks. The Long Beach Public Library, Pacific Avenue and Ocean Boulevard, carries repair books such as Ernest Tricomis' "How to Repair Major Appliances" and Jack Darr's "How to Repair Small Appliances."

SOUND OFF!

Sounding the Queen Mary's horn on New Year's Eve and other holidays will not only let the world know the old ship is not dead but also will be a great event for the people and businessmen of Long Beach. People certainly will come for miles to hear it. I'm sure that, on New Year's Eve, thousands of local residents will toast the sounding of the horn, letting them know another year has begun for Long Beach. A.B., Long Beach.

Nixon's Cabinet Choices

Woman, Romney, 2 'Name' Demos Among Best Bets

By AL EISELE
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The first woman secretary of agriculture, a pair of prominent Democrats, an unsuccessful GOP presidential aspirant, no Rockefeller and two of President-elect Richard Nixon's closest advisers.

That's how the Nixon cabinet shapes up in the final stage of deliberations on the members of his official family whom he will announce next week, according to a high Republican congressional source.

The GOP source, who insisted on anonymity, offered his version of the Nixon cabinet Friday as speculation on the identity of its members reached fever pitch in the nation's capital.

THE GOP source, whose credentials in the Nixon camp are first-rate, cautioned that there still can be some last-minute changes. He added that some of the cabinet choices are contingent on whether others accept Nixon's offer, but indicated that the biggest surprise could come at the Agriculture Department, which has always been headed by a man.

The source said Nixon has now decided to offer the post to an attractive 54-year-old Republican congresswoman from the State of Washington, Rep. Catherine May.

Mrs. May is the third-ranking GOP member of the House Agriculture Committee and was a member of President Johnson's National Commission on Food Marketing. She is said to have been a compromise choice after Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., Nixon's first selection for the job, made it clear he didn't want it.

ACCORDING to the same source, Nixon has pretty well settled on all but three of his other cabinet choices. Those still up in the air include the secretaries of state and treasury and the postmaster general.

As for the other cabinet appointments, these are the people considered the best bets to be named next week:

Defense: Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., Interior Committee chairman and high-ranking member of the Armed Services Committee. He would be one of the two readily identifiable Democrats Nixon said he wanted in his cabinet.

Housing and Urban Development: Daniel P. Moynihan, former housing official under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson and now head of the Institute of Urban Studies at MIT

Rule State Guard Viet Duty OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice William O. Douglas reluctantly allowed the Army Friday to send to Vietnam 386 National Guardsmen who protest their orders as unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court justice said the question should be brought before the Supreme Court but that he saw no point in opposing a majority of his colleagues on the high tribunal who have refused to consider legal arguments against the war.

A RESTRAINING order has been sought from Douglas by members of the 1st Squadron of the National Guard's 18th Armored Cavalry, based in Burbank. Earlier, the U.S. District Court in Tacoma, Wash., refused to issue a restraining order.

The unit was called to active duty May 13 after North Korea captured the intelligence ship Pueblo and its crew. Later, the guardsmen were sent to Fort Lewis in Washington. The Californians face transport to Vietnam in the next few days.

THEY asked Douglas to rule on their contention that the Constitution restricts mobilization of Guardsmen "to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions."

Douglas, in a statement said: "There should not be the slightest doubt that whenever the chief executive of the country takes any citizen by the neck and either puts him in prison or subjects him to some ordeal or sends him overseas to fight in a war, the question is a justifiable one."

Enraged Fans Riot at Forum

Enraged partisan boxing fans rioted Friday night after Australia's Lionel Rose retained his bantamweight title with a split decision over Mexico's Chucho Castillo at the Forum in Inglewood.

Infuriated Latin-Americans started at least 10 fires in the stands and pelted the ring with a hail of trash and bottles.

Police swarmed into the building, as customers frantically covered their heads with folding chairs and women bundled their coats over their heads.

8 Marines Injured in Two Blasts

CAMP PENDLETON (UPI) — Eight Marines were injured, two seriously, in two separate explosions Friday on this sprawling Southern California Marine base.

Five Marines were hurt in an explosion during a training exercise near Las Pulgas Lake. One man was seriously injured and underwent surgery at the base naval hospital. The other four escaped serious injury, a base spokesman said.

Three Marines were injured in the other explosion earlier in the day in a mess hall. A cook was trying to ignite a pilot light in a gas stove with a match when fumes from the stove exploded, the spokesman said. The cook suffered burns over 25 percent of his body and was under intensive care at the hospital.

The other two men suffered lesser burns on their legs, arms and face. They were listed in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of relatives. Details of the training exercise explosion were also not released.

'MAKE NATION WORTHY' Nixon Hails Vets at State Dinner

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

PALM SPRINGS — President-elect Richard M. Nixon Friday night asked the nation's Republican governors to help him "make this country worthy" of the men who have been fighting in Vietnam.

In a moving, extemporaneous toast to 66 uniformed, disabled Vietnam veterans who attended at the formal state dinner climaxing the Republican Governors' Conference here, Nixon told more than 1,000 formally attired guests that "we must all dedicate ourselves to the proposition that these men will have fought for a cause which can bring peace to the world, and that they will return to a nation which can move forward, and can provide opportunity for all."

HE SAID: "Nothing I can do as holder of the highest office in the land, or I would say to my fellow citizens, the governors, nothing we can do, can equal what these fighting men have done."

Nixon's remarks were in response to a toast made to him by California Gov.

Fair Weekend Days Due After Fog Fades

Early morning fog, but otherwise fair weather was on tap for Long Beach this weekend, but International Airport officials were hoping for anything — even snow — to drive away heavy fog that forced suspension of operations there for the second day in a row Friday.

Flights in and out of International were suspended Friday night during a repeat performance of on-again, off-again fog that forced closing of the airport from Thursday afternoon to Friday morning.

Long Beach Municipal Airport officials resumed their "fog watch" after U.S. Weather Bureau predictions called for a return of "pea soup" conditions in the area.

The weekend weather outlook called for mild daytime temperatures, mostly in the low 70s, for the Long Beach area, followed by overnight lows of 45 degrees or less. No

Wide-Scale Offer Hit as Untrue

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College, offered concessions Friday aimed at ending a violent month-long strike. But strike leaders quickly rejected them and called him a liar.

Within minutes after Hayakawa announced his program, about 300 Negro and white students, along with some Negro community leaders, marched around the campus, shouting, "On Strike! Shut it down!"

The demonstrators held a brief rally at which speakers castigated the acting president, then marched off.

IT WAS in sharp contrast with Thursday, when police with drawn guns and chemical crowd repellents had to protect Hayakawa from a mob which stormed the administration building.

Hayakawa announced creation of a full-scale Black Studies Department with classes starting in February and studies leading to degrees. Nathan Hare, a controversial Negro instructor, was named department head.

The acting president also promised admission at the spring semester of 128 additional minority students who lack academic requirements and creation of a task force to "explore policies and procedures for ethnic studies."

He promised "due process" in disciplinary procedures and for George Murray, Black Panther whose suspension as a part-time teacher touched off the strike Nov. 6.

The striking Black Students Union, backed by the Students for a Democratic Society and the Third World Liberation Front of Latin and Oriental students, have demanded full amnesty for everyone and immediate reinstatement of Murray.

THEY ALSO have demanded a completely autonomous Black Studies Department and an Ethnic Studies Department, with the students to control faculty appointments and courses, and admission of all nonwhite applicants regardless of background.

Hayakawa's program was announced at a news conference, then read over campus loudspeakers.

While it was read to about 2,000 of the college's 18,000 students in the quadrangle, strikers held a conference of their own across the street.

Communist Saboteurs Blow Up Key Bridge

Combined News Services

SAIGON — North Vietnamese forces probing the northern frontier defenses of South Vietnam Friday attacked U.S. Marines near a vital outpost south of the DMZ. U.S. artillery blasted Red units inside the buffer strip three times. In what Allied commanders called a coordinated thrust against the DMZ defense network, Communist saboteurs blew up a bridge linking Dong Ha Marine Base with another camp while North Vietnamese infantrymen battled Marines outside Dong Ha's barbed wire perimeter. The attackers failed in an attempt to destroy a second bridge connecting Dong Ha with an outpost in the opposite direction, U.S. spokesmen said. They reported a brisk firefight going on outside Dong Ha, 13 miles south of the zone and anchor point of eastern frontier defenses, but no casualty reports were available.

U.S. Won't Oppose Pueblo Odyssey

WASHINGTON — The State Department indicated Friday it would not oppose the effort by a group of Virginians now in Moscow to visit the 82 captured Pueblo, crewmen being held in North Korea. Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said that Atty. Gen. Carl McAffee and three others "understand they carry no brief to negotiate for the U.S. government." He said the State Department would indeed be cool to any effort by private citizens to negotiate for the government but that the State Department at the same time supports any genuine humanitarian effort on behalf of the men.

Iraqis Return With Israeli Jet Scrap

AMMAN, Jordan — An Iraqi delegation returned home Friday after touring Iraqi installations in Jordan which they called their "first defensive line" against Israel. The delegation, led by union minister Abdullah Al-Khodayer, had flown here after Israel jet planes bombed and strafed Iraqi sites in Jordan Wednesday. The Iraqis took back to Baghdad the wreckage of an Israeli Mystere fighter-bomber shot down during the raids, which followed Arab artillery strikes on Israeli settlements. The Iraqi delegation flew to Jordan for the hasty review of the 10,000 Iraqi troops still stationed in the country from the Mideast war 17 months ago. Iraq refused to agree to the cease-fire accord and maintains a state of war against Israel.

Ex-Nazi Acquitted of War Sentences

BERLIN — A West Berlin court Friday acquitted former Nazi Judge Hans Joachim Rehse of murder on grounds the death sentences he imposed on anti-Nazis were legal and proper judicial acts at the time. Judge Ernst Juergen Oske ruled that all states — including Nazi Germany — have the legal right to defend themselves against persons they consider enemies. He reportedly ordered Nazi opponents to the gallows more than 200 times.

Priests Can Only Offer 'God Bless You'

LONDON — John Cardinal Heenan, leader of Britain's Roman Catholics, said Friday night that if a Catholic couple used artificial contraception and reveals it in the confessional, the priest can only say "God bless you." The cardinal, archbishop of Westminster and a member of the Papal commission that reported on contraception before Pope Paul VI gave his encyclical ruling against artificial birth control, said people must follow their consciences.

U.S. Navy Begins Black Sea Maneuvers

NAPLES, Italy — Two destroyers of the U.S. 6th Fleet will steam into the Black Sea in the next few days on a routine operation, Navy spokesmen reported Friday. The Soviet newspaper Pravda called the mission a provocative sally close to Russian shores. American warships entered the Black Sea — the Soviet Union's only outlet to the Mediterranean — last June and stayed about four days.

Although Navy officials described this new mission as routine, it seemed designed to remind Moscow that the Black Sea is an international body of water and not a Soviet lake.

Italian Students Boycott Classes

ROME — Tens of thousands of high school and college students boycotted classes and demonstrated for educational reforms in Italian cities Friday. The youths tied up traffic in several cities and officials wondered when the nationwide agitation would end. The demonstrations, in Rome, Genoa, Naples, Bologna, Anzio, Udine and other cities, followed four days of strikes and violence throughout the country as the new premier-designate tried to put together a new government.

Peace Talks Hinge on Shape of Table

PARIS — The U.S. and North Vietnam have agreed on all procedural questions for the expanded peace talks except for two points, including the shape of the negotiating table. The other point to be decided is the date for the preconference procedural session, the first face-to-face meeting of the U.S. and South Vietnam on one side and North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's NFL on the other. The table is important to both sides. The Allies want two rectangular tables with the U.S. and South Vietnam sitting at one and North Vietnam and the front on the other. This is because South Vietnam recognizes the front as only part of the North Vietnamese team. North Vietnam wants a square table, with the front on one side by itself to show its status as an independent delegation.

NATO Operations to Begin in January

WASHINGTON — The United States will fly 15,500 men and 96 Jets to West Germany for January maneuvers near the Czechoslovakia border. The men will conduct exercises near Grafenwohr for a few weeks before returning to the U.S. The actions come as part of a broad plan by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to shore up the alliance in response to the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia and tensions in Central Europe.

Harlem Teachers Win Empty Victory

NEW YORK — Seven disputed white teachers won an empty victory Friday. They got back into Harlem Elementary School 39 under heavy police escort but the classrooms were bare. Negro school administrator Charles E. Wilson had led the students and teachers loyal to the local school governing board to a nearby church for boycott classes. "The union (the United Federation of Teachers) captured the school and we captured the teachers and children," Wilson said at Chambers Memorial Baptist Church.

Abe Levine, a vice president of the UFT, told newsmen the teachers would "stay in the classrooms and if any children show up, they will teach them. The children are being used in a very tragic way," he said.

U.S. Will Increase Draft Call

WASHINGTON — The Army moved Friday to demobilize 20,000 National Guardsmen and reservists by the end of next year and indicated an easing of the Vietnam war might bring earlier release. At the same time, the Army said draft calls will be raised by about 3,000 men a month from March through July to replace the guardsmen and reservists. The announcement said about 10,000 of the guardsmen and reservists called to active duty last May will be returned to civilian life by next Oct. 31, the other 10,000 by Dec. 15, 1969.

Football Hero Faces New Trial

LINCOLN, Neb. — Duane Earl Pope, a college football hero once condemned to die for massacring three persons in a bank holdup, Friday was sentenced in a federal court to life imprisonment. Pope, 25, learned hours later he would be retired — and face a possible death penalty again — in the county where the crime was committed. Pope was sentenced to the electric chair in 1965 after he was convicted of shooting three persons to death during the stickup. The U.S. Supreme Court threw out Pope's death penalty on grounds that the capital punishment provision of the federal bank robbery statute does not meet constitutional requirements because it provides that only a jury may impose a death penalty.

Escaped Miners Testify at Hearing

FAIRMONT, W. Va. — A stream of witnesses hammered Friday at safety conditions in the big coal mine where 78 men died in a series of explosions and an unyielding fire. Lewis Lake, one of the 21 miners who escaped, told a Department of Mines hearing that "we've had too much gas and had to clear it out..." He was among witnesses who appeared at the hearing, held to probe into the causes of the explosion and fire at Mountaineer Coal Co. No. 9 mine. The mine was sealed on Nov. 29 after search teams and other rescue efforts failed for more than nine days to establish contact with the trapped men. Lake and two others who escaped agreed that conditions could have been improved.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Mother of 2 Has Quads

A 22-year-old mother of two Friday gave birth to quadruplets—three girls and a boy—in San Fernando Valley Hospital. Mrs. Lorraine Gallion and her husband, James, already were the parents of two sons, James, 4, and Bruce 2, when the quads arrived. The four infants are reported doing "just fine," according to hospital attendants, who placed them in "isolettes" so their father could view them.

Gallion, 28, a sheet metal mechanic foreman, said four new arrivals simultaneously is "a little hard to take" and noted the couple would have to make room for the expanded family in a two-bedroom home in nearby Sylmar. "We don't have room right now," he explained. No names have been chosen for the quadruplets yet. Gallion pointed out that he and his wife had been expecting twins. He said he and his wife picked out two feminine names, hoping for girls. He said he didn't know when they would agree on four names.

A hospital spokesman said this was the first set of quadruplets born there. Weight of the babies ranged from 1 pound, 14 ounces to 2 pounds, 11 ounces.

Details of the meeting were not disclosed. Scranton also will meet with leaders of Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Israel.

FAMILY TOUCH ON NIXON'S GREAT SEAL

A replica of the crewel-work pattern of the Great Seal of the United States, made for President-elect Richard M. Nixon by his daughter, Julie, will appear at his suggestion on the official inaugural medal. The Inaugural Medal Committee said Friday in Washington that use of the crewel effect, as the family note involved, mark precedents in the 68-year history of the medals. In keeping with tradition—the front of the medal will be a sculptured portrait of the new president. The Great Seal design will appear on the other side. It will include the message on the original: "TO RN-JN." Bronze versions of the medal will be sold for $6 each. A limited edition of 15,000 in solid silver will be offered at $45 each. Nixon will receive the only one that will be made in gold.

Militant UCI Negroes Spell Out Grievances

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

Negro students at the University of California, Irvine, spelled out a bill of objections Friday, hinting at a "San Francisco State College-style crisis" if their grievances are ignored.

John King, minister of public affairs for the Black Students Union — which claims 28 of the 29 Negroes at UCI campus are members — explained the prediction of disorder is "not a threat; it's a warning."

Of UCI's Negro students, the only one not a BSU member is Ron Ridge, president of the Associated Students. He was present at Friday's conference at Gateway Commons, but took no part and made no comments on the BSU demands.

KING AND Jim Winder, president of the campus BSU, said their grievances include demands for an Afro-American study course and an end to what they called discrimination in housing.

They complained the university's Financial Aid Office is guilty of "deliberate delays and supercilious attitudes" in dispensing checks to black students.

"It's as though they think we'll take the money and get drunk or something, rather than use it for our education," King said.

Winder said he is "displeased" with the "attitudes" of students on campus and complained "at least half of them live in Orange County and bring their attitudes on campus."

He said Orange County residents "are notoriously conservative" and added the black students "took into consideration the county's mentality," but still had to complain.

BOTH OBJECTED to a survey done by a girl psychology student. They said questions in the survey were "racist."

The survey questionnaire asked details of political activity, opinions on minority groups, whether they should be "allowed" in dormitories, if dating of Negroes and Mexican Americans should be encouraged, and if there was "any objection" to a Black Students Union chapter on campus.

Both King and Winder insisted the survey is "racist" and "is not even sound psychologically."

When they found out about the survey, they decided they'd "had enough," they said.

They drew up their grievances after they learned "there isn't any campaign to bring more blacks on campus."

THEY HAVE consulted with university officials "through channels," but have not yet finished their talks, or met with Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich, they said.

Meanwhile, Stuart E. Marsee, president of El Camino College, in Torrance, ordered an investigation Friday into the disruption of a campus assembly Thursday by about 10 members of the radical student organization Human Education Power.

"We are concerned as to whether or not any laws were broken during convocation," he said.

"To this end we are consulting our legal counsel and will be guided by their advice."

Members of the white militant group shouted down USC urban affairs expert David Martin while he was addressing nearly 1,800 persons at the El Camino auditorium Thursday, and later presented college officials with a list of demands, among which were a request for an end to "racist" policies at the 16,000-student campus.

College officials denied "racist policies" are in existence at the Torrance junior college.

Delayed 'Rat' Ship Is Unloaded, Sails

A court action against the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, Local 13, was taken off calendar Friday by direction of the plaintiffs, the Pacific Maritime Association.

The action, designed to force the stevedores to unload the No. 5 hold of the SS President Taylor, was withdrawn after the longshoremen unloaded the vessel and it sailed for San Francisco.

Longshoremen had contended the ship's hold was filled with rats, nine of which were caught and turned over to the U.S. Public Health Service.

This week's unloading of the trouble plagued hold was accomplished after the PHS conducted another examination of the hold and reported no danger from the rats existed.

Traffic Injuries Kill Two

Two persons died Friday in Orange County hospitals of injuries received in traffic accidents.

David Turnbull, 37, of 4501 Canbury Drive, La Palma, died at 9:50 a.m. in Costa Mesa Memorial Hospital of injuries received at 1:50 a.m. Thursday when the car he was driving collided with one driven by Mrs. Elaine Cecilia Schurr, 48, of 1110 W. Pomona St., Santa Ana. The woman was reported in "good" condition in the same hospital with arm and leg injuries.

Mrs. Irene Felix, 67, of Los Angeles, died at 5:18 a.m. in Orange County Medical Center. She was injured Nov. 24 in a five-car collision among vehicles southbound on the Santa Ana Freeway north of Ball Road in Anaheim.

County Opens 5 New VD Clinics

Five new County Health Department clinics for the treatment of venereal disease opened in the Long Beach area Friday.

'Bugs' Delay Sealab III Descent Until January

Support crews attached to the Sealab III project have been ordered to return to their bases — subject to immediate recall — as the Navy rescheduled its most encompassing man-in-the-sea tests for no earlier than January.

The action eliminated any chance that astronauts orbiting in Apollo 8 might establish radio contact with aquanauts laboring 600 feet beneath the surface of the Pacific.

Ordered back to bases were divers from PI.

Alugu, a photographer-reporter team from San Diego, units from the Navy's test station at China Lake and others. The units were told to remain on standby pending final decision on the start of the undersea project.

The delays were ordered after Sunday's still-unexplained flooding of an empty, four-man elevator which would have transferred aquanauts to and from the Sealab habitat on the ocean floor off San Clemente Island.

Sealab has been plagued by one malfunction after another. In October, countdown on the 60-day undersea test was stymied when the capsule developed a helium gas leak. No sooner was that problem solved than the capsule's electrical system was shorted by seawater seepage. Sunday's mishap was considered much more serious, however, and the delay — at least a month — was ordered.

While Sealab officials attempt to solve the problems of their undersea mission, the surface support ship USS Elk River will sit it out at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

The steel cylinder of Sealab III, meanwhile, has been towed to a safe harbor at Wilson Cove on San Clemente Island.

Court Halts Teamster Picketing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Teamsters Union pickets were ordered by a federal judge Friday to leave San Francisco piers where they have been disrupting dock operations in a jurisdictional dispute over a pier job.

Federal Judge Albert C. Wollenberg issued a temporary injunction against Teamsters Local 85 at the request of the National Labor Relations Board. The board is investigating a charge by the Pacific Maritime Association, representing ship owners, that the picket line was an unfair labor practice.

The picketing threatened to delay sailings because members of several ship unions declined to cross the lines.

The Teamsters local has filed a counter-charge with the NLRB contending that a leading dock employer, Marine Terminals, displaced a Teamster worker with a member of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

The job in question was operation of a large crane which unloads containers from trucks driven to the piers by Teamsters.

Refinery Man Dies From Steam Burns

Theodore Rangel, 28, of 1026 Colon St., Wilmington, died Friday night at Little Company of Mary Hospital, Torrance, of steam burns he suffered Monday when a pipeline broke at the Atlantic-Richfield Refinery, 1801 Sepulveda Blvd., Torrance.

Rangel had been hospitalized since the accident with second-degree burns over 95 per cent of his body.

A co-worker, Leroy Birdine, 39, of Los Angeles, remained in fair condition at the hospital late Friday with second-degree burns.

The men had been working on scaffolding when the steam line broke near them, officials said.

Plan to Relocate Torrance Juvenile Court in Crossfire

By MOLLY BURRELL
Staff Writer

A plan to relocate Torrance Juvenile Court in Inglewood has drawn fire from the Torrance Community Council and support from the presiding judge.

Predicting "such a move would seriously impede juvenile justice in this city and surrounding areas," the group this week urged residents to join a campaign against the proposal.

In a letter to the presiding juvenile judge Mrs. Patricia O'Betz, president of the council, cited inconveniences and delays which would result from traveling to Inglewood. She also noted the present convenient location of the court in Torrance civic center next door to probation, police, and juvenile traffic departments.

"Police tell us such a move would mean enormous time loss in commuting and then waiting for the hearing. As it is now, our officers can stay on the job until they get a call to appear in court," explains Mrs. O'Betz. The Torrance court has been functioning at that location since April of this year. Prior to then, cases were handled in downtown Los Angeles.

In defense of the proposed move, Presiding Judge Alfred McCourtney declared:

"The problem is an overall increase in cases throughout the southwest area. It has been proposed that the most efficient and economical way to meet the problem is to consolidate the Torrance-Inglewood-Santa Monica area, pick a location somewhere in between, and probably add a third court referee."

"We would like to have juvenile courts in every major area but we cannot afford it," the judge added.

The proposed change was recommended by the juvenile courts committee of county Superior Court judges, and approved by the court executive committee. No location has been picked but Inglewood would be a logical mid-point for the areas to be served, Judge McCourtney said.

Although no statistics on increased caseloads were available from the court or the probation department, comparative caseloads as of Nov. 1 are:

Harbor area (including Torrance, Manhattan Beach, Palos Verdes, San Pedro, Wilmington, Dominguez had 1,079

Centinela district (including Inglewood, Playa del Rey, Baldwin Hills, El Segundo, Hawthorne, Gardena) had 1,173

Santa Monica (including Culver City, Beverly Hills, Westwood, West Los Angeles, Pacific Palisades) had 748.

Marine Indicted on Housing Law

NEW YORK (UPI) — An 18-year-old youth now serving in the Marine Corps has become the first person indicted under Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said in Washington the indictment was returned late Thursday by a federal grand jury in Brooklyn against Dennis Feise. It charged him with setting fire to his next-door neighbor's home in West Babylon, N.Y., because the owner planned to sell the house to a Negro.

Brooklyn Federal Judge George Rosling set Dec. 19 for arraignment of Feise, who was reported by his parents to be in South Carolina. If convicted, he could receive a maximum of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Feise was charged with violating Title 9 of the 1968 Civil Rights Act which makes it a federal crime to attempt to intimidate anyone from selling a home on a nondiscriminatory basis.

The indictment also accused Feise of defacing his neighbor's two cars. Asst. U.S. Atty. David Steinman said the word "Nigger" was painted on the cars and the tires slashed.

The youth allegedly set the fire last May 23, causing about $500 damage to the garage of the home of Jerome R. Sievers. Sievers sold his home in September to a white family and moved to Florida, according to a realty company which handled the transaction.

Feise's parents are now living in the Jamaica section of Queens in New York City but refused Friday to discuss their son's case with newsmen.

Pair Still Missing as Hunt Stalls

AUBURN (AP) — The Sierra foothills search for a missing San Mateo housewife and her son was at a standstill Friday.

A possible clue to the whereabouts of Mrs. Betty Nelson, 47, and her son, David, 9, fizzled. Placer County Sheriff's Lt. Arthur Ables said.

SEARCHERS had found a blue summer dress under some boards at the entrance to an old mine tunnel not far from the Nelsons' cabin. But Ables said Mrs. Nelson's daughter, Mrs. Betty Dorman, 24, of Redwood City, told them the dress was not her mother's.

"We've searched just about all we are going to search unless we can nail some concrete evidence down," Ables said.

William E. Nelson, 56, a San Mateo businessman, his wife and son had been reported missing some time ago by the daughter. Nelson was found hiding in the attic of the cabin this week, police said. The new federal fair housing law, it was announced Friday.

Ronald Reagan, the conference's official host.

Smiling, and in obvious good spirits, Nixon had circulated among the tables before returning to the head table and proposing a toast to the governors as "holders of the only political office now which I have sought and failed to win."

The remark, which drew good-natured laughter from the audience, referred to Nixon's unsuccessful effort to unseat then Gov. Edmund G. Brown in 1962.

MORE MORE MORE

The president-elect arrived in this sun-drenched desert resort community in midafternoon, and immediately began a round of meetings with groups of governors. He met with 24 chief executives in 90 minutes, then had a private meeting with New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Nevada Gov. Paul Laxalt said that the Western governors had asked Nixon to name Montana's Tim Babcock, who lost his bid for re-election to the governorship last month, as Secretary of the Interior.

He said Nixon did not make a commitment, but did assure the governor that he would name a man "familiar with Western problems" to the important post.

LAXALT said the governors "were completely satisfied" that Nixon was sympathetic to state problems and intended to give the states a more important voice in planning domestic programs.

Earlier Friday, Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew had also promised the governors that communications between the states and the Congress would be improved.

The conference will conclude today with the second and final formal business session, after which the 34 governors and governors-elect will return to their home states.

and the other "name" Democrat.

—State: Still up in the air, with former Undersecretary of the Treasury C. Douglas Dillon as Nixon's favorite. Robert Murphy, Nixon's liaison with the Johnson administration during the pre-inaugural preparations, and a former ambassador-at-large, is another possibility.

—Commerce: Michigan Gov. George Romney, who opposed Nixon for the GOP nomination before dropping out of the New Hampshire primary.

—Treasury: David Kennedy, board chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank Trust Co., in Chicago, although William McChesney Martin, head of the Federal Reserve system, could end up in the job. In either case, it is not expected to go to David Rockefeller, who has been prominently mentioned as a possible choice.

—Attorney General: John Mitchell, Nixon's campaign manager and Wall Street law partner.

—Health, Education and Welfare: California Lt. Gov. Robert Finch, manager of Nixon's 1960 presidential campaign and 1962 California gubernatorial campaign and one of Nixon's closest friends.

—Transportation: Massachusetts Gov. John Volpe, a near-miss as Nixon's vice presidential running mate.

Interior: Rep. Rogers C. Morton, R-Md., the choice of Vice President-elect Spiro Agnew of Maryland and retiring Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., a key aide in Nixon's presidential campaign.

Labor: James J. Reynolds, present undersecretary of labor and, although a Democrat, not a prominent one.

Postmaster General: The one job Nixon is said not to have decided on. A good guess is that it could go to Ray Bliss if Bliss steps down as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

CREWMEN ABANDON THE BURNING USS CALIFORNIA UNDER COVER OF SMOKE
Battleship Was One of 18 American Vessels Hit In Surprise Japanese Attack

Plan Rites at Arizona Memorial

HONOLULU (UPI) — A brief ceremony was scheduled aboard the USS Arizona Memorial in Pearl Harbor today honoring the more than 3,000 men killed in a Japanese attack 27 years ago.

The ceremony, specially authorized by Navy Secretary Paul R. Ignatius, was to allow 180 representatives of the National Conference of State Legislatures to pay their respects. The group ended a five-day meeting here Friday.

On Dec. 7, 1941, word of the attack blared over radios. "This is not a drill," a voice said, breaking the calm of a Sunday morning.

More than 2,000 Navy men were killed, about half of them aboard the Arizona. The bodies still remain entombed in the rusting hulk under water.

There were 97 warships in the harbor when the attack came. Eighteen were sunk or damaged. Of those, 15 were repaired and saw action against the Japanese before the war ended.

According to the Navy, no ceremony is held on the Arizona on Dec. 7, unless special permission is granted. In addition to the 180 representatives of the legislative group there will be 20 top military leaders and veteran commanders taking part.

QUEBEC (AP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand has introduced legislation to permit sales of alcoholic beverages in rooms under the grandstands at hockey and baseball games.

Baroness Opposes Contraceptive Pills

LONDON (AP) — Baroness Summersill, a Labor politician and practicing physician, says contraceptive pills should be withdrawn from public use until they are proved safe.

"Otherwise, young women throughout the world are exposed to intolerable risks," she wrote in the British Medical Journal. British authorities have linked contraceptive pills with increased thrombosis in young women but say the advantages far outweigh any risks.

HOUR BEFORE ZEROS STRUCK

U. S. Navy Scored First in Pearl Battle

By BILL HAZLETT
Staff Writer

Almost everyone — student to senior citizen — remembers or at least knows something about that infamous morning in 1941 when Japanese planes screamed out of the Hawaiian sky — snaked through Kolokole Pass — to bomb and strafe in a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor.

But few know it was the U.S. Navy — not Japan — which fired the first shots, dropped the first bombs and sank the first enemy vessel in that historic battle 27 years ago today.

The opening shots were fired in a brief naval encounter which flared more than an hour before enemy dive bombers skimmed the Waianae Mountains, zoomed past Waipio Camp and dropped into the slot aiming at Ford Island in the center of Pearl Harbor and nearby Hickham Air Force Base.

THE FIRST to die in the Battle of Pearl Harbor were two Japanese officers manning a midget submarine, one of five of the 79-foot undersea craft trying to slip into the sprawling American naval installation.

Contact with the enemy sub came shortly before 4 a.m., when crewmen aboard the minesweeper Condor spotted "a suspicious slick" moving through the dark water southwest of the harbor entrance.

The "slick" turned out to be the sub's periscope, and the gong-gong-gong sound of general quarters that tumbled the sleepy crew aboard the destroyer Ward from their bunks was the signal for the start of World War II for the United States.

THE Ward, alerted by a blinker message from the minesweeper, crisscrossed the channel for more than an hour before securing from general quarters. A short time later, a target repair ship again spotted one of the midget sub periscopes and the Ward got a second chance.

This time a lookout aboard the old four-stack destroyer spotted the submarine and the battle was on. A patrol plane at nearby Kaneohe Naval Air Station, also alerted by the target ship's message, took off to lend a hand.

The plane spotted the sub almost immediately and dropped two smoke pots to lead the destroyer to its target.

The first shot was fired by the Ward's gun at 6:45 a.m., more than an hour before the Zeros, Bettys and Vals hit Battleship Row creating a tangled mass of burning, sinking, capsized and gutted hulks and killing more than 2,400 American servicemen.

THE Ward gunners missed the first time but a second shot from the destroyer's five-inchers slammed into the midget, touching off an explosion, killing the two-man crew and sinking the submarine.

The patrol plane dropped two bombs — as insurance — and the destroyer opened a brief depth-charge attack. The submarine disappeared in 200 fathoms of water.

Although the skirmish took place less than five miles from the anchorage where the pride of the fleet — almost a score of U.S. ships — lay tied together in neat rows while hundreds of men slept in their bunks unaware of the impending onslaught, no word ever reached Battleship Row.

THE AMERICANS won that opening battle, but the second encounter was tragically lopsided.

The surprise Sunday morning attack on Pearl Harbor opened at 7:40 a.m. when the first of 353 Japanese planes bombed Wheeler Field and strafed Schofield Barracks.

The attack lasted about two hours. By the time the last enemy plane roared away from the carnage to the Japanese carrier force — 175 miles away in the north Pacific — 2,403 American servicemen were dead, 1,143 were maimed or wounded, 188 U.S. warplanes were destroyed, 159 others were damaged and 18 Navy ships — including the USS California — were sunk or seriously damaged.

THE TOLL also included 68 civilians and 35 wounded, most from misfired American artillery shells which hit Honolulu homes.

Japanese losses were minor. The enemy lost 55 men in 29 downed planes, nine crewmen from their five midget subs, and the crew of an attack submarine sunk in the opening assault and never accounted for.

The most terrifying — and costly — victim of the attacking planes was the USS Arizona, which sank with more than 1,100 men aboard after taking two direct bomb hits.

The sailors and Marines who went down with that ship are "still aboard" their final resting place in a sunken tomb marked by a quaking white concrete monument.

13 States Suffer Spreading Flu Bug

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hong Kong flu has spread its germ-filled tentacles into 13 states, Puerto Rico and New York City, doctors at the National Communicable Disease Center reported Friday.

The virus, no respecter of social status, has struck from the campus of Yale University to the New York Giants football team and in a Catholic seminary at Baltimore, the NCDC said.

Those new outbreaks are in addition to others at a Chicago Veterans Hospital and at an Air Force base in Grandview, Mo.

Meanwhile, doctors said chances remain doubtful of finding a vaccine which can fully prevent the disease.

"WE'RE LUCKY in most years if a vaccine is 60 to 70 per cent effective," said Dr. Bruce Dull, assistant director of the NCDC. He added: "Our biggest problem is trying to educate people to understand that flu is different from all other infectious diseases."

Doctors said that only in the flu virus do the antigens-protective agents change from year to year, area to area, and even from case to case.

They said the changes are generally small enough so that a vaccine developed to combat one strain of flu has at least limited effect on newer types.

But for the markedly different types, such as the Hong Kong flu, a new vaccine is necessary.

SCIENTISTS have developed a new vaccine for the latest breed of virus and are now testing its efficiency on some residents of Orange County, Calif., in addition to inmates at the U.S. Penitentiary in Atlanta and at the Georgia State Prison at Reidsville.

Nose washes taken from the test groups at the time they are vaccinated and again three weeks later are expected to help scientists discover how effective the new vaccine is.

With confirmed outbreaks of the Hong Kong flu reported by state health officials in Alaska, California, Colorado, Utah, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, North Carolina, Washington, Missouri, Illinois and Arizona plus Puerto Rico and New York City, NCDC officials are seeing their predictions of a flu epidemic coming true.

Connecticut, Maryland, Missouri, New York City, Illinois and Arizona were the latest areas to confirm that Hong Kong flu outbreaks have occurred.

HOWEVER, the NCDC stressed that its figures are not necessarily the latest available and state health officials are making hourly checks on the flu situation in their states.

In addition to the areas with flu outbreaks, scattered instances of Hong Kong flu have been reported from Oregon, Hawaii, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Georgia, Alabama and Virginia.

The NCDC said since Sept. 2, 26 states, New York City, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico have reported some form of flu.

FAMILY LIVES ON

Tojo Paid for War Crimes in Execution

TOKYO (UPI) — Those who were there said he looked strangely unfamiliar without his spectacles and dentures, but it did not make much difference because a few minutes later they hanged him by his neck until he was dead.

That was how Gen. Hiroshi Tojo, the wartime prime minister of Japan, paid for his war crimes in the predawn darkness of the morning of Dec. 23, 1948.

Before he was hanged, Tojo exacted a promise from his wife, Katsuko, that she would not join him in death by committing suicide.

IT WAS a promise she kept, and so today at the age of 78, she lives quietly in a small apartment and remembers her husband fondly.

"The Japanese people are entitled to peace because so many of their soldiers died in the war," said Mrs. Tojo. "It is the women who want peace. They want to take care of their children."

Mrs. Tojo said recently she thinks of her husband every day and makes daily visits to the family altar where his portrait hangs.

"I wonder why people fight everywhere in the world—in the Mideast, in Vietnam," she said.

When Tojo was hanged he was survived by his wife, three sons and four daughters.

The eldest son, a minor official in the Shipping Promotion Council, died in 1966. The third son is a major in the Air Self Defense Force staff office. Tenuo, 52, the second son, is the best known. He designed planes and rockets during the war and today is designing a transport plane for the Air Self Defense Force.

THE ELDEST daughter is married to a corporate executive, the second daughter is the wife of a psychology professor, the third daughter is married to a movie director and the youngest daughter made headlines several years ago when she married an American businessman.

"Until a few years ago, friends of my father used to gather to mark the anniversary of his death," said Tenuo Tojo. "But there is no such gathering any more," adding that his own respect for his father has never wavered.

Mrs. Tojo still aids families who were bereaved by the war.

"I am not lonely at all," she said. "My children visit me often."

U.S. Asks Soviet for Talks to Limit, Reduce Missiles

By B. GWERTZMAN

WASHINGTON — The United States is understood to have told the Soviet Union it is ready to begin the long postponed talks on the limitation and reduction of strategic missiles.

Reliable sources said the Russians have been asked their views on the time, place and level of participation — whether the talks should begin at the summit level between President Johnson and Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin.

EXCLUSIVE

N. Y. Times Service

the summit level between President Johnson and Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin.

The American view was made known to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin by Secretary of State Dean Rusk at a small lunch given by Mr. Rusk on Nov. 25, one day before Dobrynin left for consultations in Moscow, the sources said.

President-elect Nixon, kept abreast of the status of the talks, is said to have given a green light so far to the Johnson administration's diplomatic who reportedly had been control actions, for which the Johnson administration has been pressing for some time, were originally due to begin in late summer or early autumn at the summit level. But the plans were put aside by the United States after the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia on Aug. 20-21.

Since then, the Russians have stressed privately and publicly their desire to begin the talks. They have said that the Czechoslovak invasion was an "internal" matter for the Communist world and no cause to hold back progress in disarmament.

Johnson and his top advisers reached a conclusion last month that more could be gained in the long run by beginning the talks than by continuing to boycott them because of Czechoslovakia, reliable sources said.

BECAUSE Johnson has only 45 days left in office, there is a question of the propriety of whether he or Nixon should talk with Kosygin, the sources said.

For this reason officials are careful to say that a summit meeting, while "possible," is not definite. They say that the Russians may very well decide that they want the talks to begin at a level beneath the summit, saving a chiefs of government meeting for later when Nixon is president.

Rusk discussed the subject of missile talks at length when he was interviewed on the Columbia Broadcasting System television program, Face the Nation, last Sunday.

Without disclosing details of the status of the talks, Rusk indicated that it was a matter getting close study by both the present and incoming administrations.

"IT IS A matter of fundamental importance. It is a matter which necessarily bridges two administrations, because it is a very complicated question and is not likely to be wrapped up between now and Jan. 20," he said.

"We do believe it is important to grapple with this problem of offensive and defensive strategic missiles," Rusk said.

He was asked whether the presence of Soviet troops in Czechoslovakia did not preclude the opening of missile talks.

Rusk replied that the "possibilities for discussions were set back" by the Soviet action. But he said, "I hope myself that we can make some progress on this before Jan. 20."

He said that the Soviet presence in Czechoslovakia "has been reduced" to three or four divisions and "some of that experience of last August is behind us."

Implicitly defending the decision to go ahead with the missile talks, Rusk said:

"WHATEVER one thinks about the Czechoslovak situation, it does not solve other problems. We will have the missile problem to deal with. We still have Southeast Asia. We still have the Middle East. So life must go on, the planet must exist, and so ways and means must be found to continue to get into these other questions that need solutions and so we are working on this problem."

Asked about the possibility of a summit, Rusk said there were no plans for one but "I would not want to rule out the possibility of a meeting at the top level."

Reliable sources said Rusk was leaving open all options in case Moscow wanted a summit with Johnson.

Negro-LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Friday the United States has done much to give equality to Negroes but much still needs to be accomplished.

Quoting Abraham Lincoln, Johnson told newsmen "We just can't live half-free and half-slave." He added: "Nor can we live 90 per cent free and 10 per cent slave."

Johnson made his remarks in his office during a ceremony in which he received the first annual United Negro College Fund Award for distinguished leadership and achievement in the fields of education and civil rights.

THE AWARD was a sculpture of a book symbolizing education and an arm holding a chain, denoting the freeing of the enslaved. It was presented by Dr. Stephen J. Wright, chairman of the fund, which is made up of 36 Negro colleges with 42,000 students.

Wright told the President he had "exercised bold and imaginative leadership in bringing into being scores of new programs and services which have improved dramatically and significantly the life and the opportunities of the people of this nation."

Finch Says Nixon's Goal Is Rational, If Unpopular, Term

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A key Nixon administration goal will be bringing rational control to government programs already on the books, Lt. Gov. Robert Finch said Friday.

Finch, a longtime confidante of President-elect Richard M. Nixon, is expected to be named Health, Education, and Welfare secretary next week.

"The effort now is to get the best men we can get to give these programs unity and purpose," Finch told the California Press Association's winter conference.

Nixon's Talent Scout Is Personnel Iconoclast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief talent scout for the Nixon administration's first team is a doctor of divinity who once graded potatoes and now grades potential secretaries of state.

And Dr. Glenn A. Olds doesn't think the best potatoes or men necessarily come in neat rounded packages.

Olds, former president of Massachusetts' Springfield College, spent seven months interviewing 1,500 persons—sizing them up as possible Cabinet secretaries, advisers, administrators and consultants for Richard M. Nixon.

As Nixon and his advisers go through the process of selecting the men to replace Johnson administration appointees, they are working with Olds' scouting reports. There is a folder for each major appointive position open to the president-elect with cross references.

IN STUDYING them, Nixon will find some surprises.

Olds, who declined to name names in an interview, said he recommended some of the top men in the country for roles that might be considered unusual — under the theory square pegs get stale in square holes.

"I used to run a potato sorter and I just don't believe that all the best meat comes from this round package," said Olds, his fingers shaping a circle.

"In fact, I have a little suspicion of the well-rounded man with the short radius. I think we need angularity. We need creativity." Thus in making recommendations to Nixon he included one group "My staff enviously calls the Oldsian Category."

"IN THAT category I recommend—always someone like this — that is to say a person that you'd say, 'Are you out of your cotton-picking mind, Olds? Why this guy? I always thought of him as this or this or this.'"

"I did this with some of the top people in the country, that is people who are always and con-

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon's chief talent hunter said Friday applications have been arriving at the rate of 1,500 a day from people who want to work in the Nixon administration. "So far we've received 3,500," said Harry Flemming. "Today's mail brought in 1,500 to 2,000. I fully anticipate 25,000 to 50,000."

ventionally thought of in a particular role. I recommended them in other, different roles.

"You know, Whitehead (Alfred North Whitehead), mathematician and philosopher, once said that ideas are like fish; you catch them fresh or they stink. You get a man habituated to a field, he goes stale."

Olds is 47, his brown suit has a natty cut, his sideburns are modishly long and his entry in Who's Who carries an even longer list of academic credits, including a doctor of divinity from Williamette University and Ph. D. in philosophy from Yale. He is author of "The Christian Corrective to the Campus Confusion."

NEVERTHELESS, "I'm an Oregon farm boy so my orientation is both earthy and practical," said Olds.

When he was at Springfield, the late President John F. Kennedy was on the college board "and I was involved in helping to get the Peace Corps going." He also helped Sargent Shriver set up VISTA.

How did he become Nixon's talent scout? "I backed into this thing," he said, by writing a memorandum on a new foreign policy strategy which was shown to Nixon by a mutual friend.

Thus he became Nixon's special assistant for manpower and development with a "clear understanding" between them. Said Olds:

"Mr. Nixon said, 'Glenn, I don't want you to be concerned with political partisanship and so on; there'll be enough people involved in the campaign that will be concerned about those things. I want you to be concerned with competence and the quality of the input, both in people and of ideas.' I've operated totally on that basis."

IN HIS reports to Nixon, Olds sometimes was explicit; but more generally, Olds said, "I would say this is the issue or area where this person is an expert and he would be good for a staff person as a specialist. Or he's a political leader or generalist. He wouldn't take a staff position but he'd been an excellent consultant or he would be good in the administration."

Chicago Report Not Rewritten -- Walker

CHICAGO (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and Daniel Walker, head of a task force that prepared a controversial report on street violence during the Democratic National Convention, denied emphatically Friday that the report was rewritten under Clark's direction.

Walker said he was appealing to Chief Judge William J. Campbell of U.S. District Court in Chicago to sanction the release of material which was deleted from the report at the request of Justice Department officials.

"I should like to go under oath here and now — a public and personal oath to the American people — that my report was not rewritten, neither by Ramsey Clark nor anyone else," Walker told a news conference here.

CLARK, responding voluntarily in Washington to a copyrighted story in the Chicago Tribune, termed as "pure fabrication" a statement attributed to an authoritative source that the report — and particularly the summary which accused police of unrestrained brutality — was "substantially rewritten" under the attorney general's direction.

The attorney general said the Walker report was submitted to the Justice Department a few days before its release Sunday solely for the purpose of assuring protection of the rights of anyone under investigation or who might be involved in any government cases.

"The only changes made as a result of this review, conducted by attorneys concerned with the investigation, was deletion as noted in the report itself of several passages in the text directly relating to the department's pending investigation," Clark said.

CLARK also denied in a statement that he wanted Walker to be special prosecutor for the federal grand jury investigation of the Chicago riots, but that Walker was rejected by Campbell.

Campbell Wednesday questioned the "motivation and timing" of the report's release and said he believed the grand jury would look into the matter. The judge also labeled the report "the report of one individual" and questioned Walker's qualifications as a criminal investigator.

Walker said no change was made in his report by "anyone not a staff member of the study team."

HE said "six prosecutable incidents" were deleted from the report "in order not to prejudice these cases." He said four of the incidents involved violence to reporters or photographers, one involved a bystander and "one involved a Chicago youth 11 miles from the Loop."

"I am urging Chief Judge Campbell to allow us to make public these cases," Walker said "I am sending the deleted material to the chief judge for his consideration."

Walker said he was making the request so "the American people would not be fooled by totally false report in the press that pertinent material was deleted on the order of Ramsey Clark."

Walker, obviously aggravated by the barrage of criticism directed against the report, defended it without qualification.

"Of all the charges that have been made, not one has challenged the facts in the report," he said. "All of them have been charges aimed at diverting attention from the report itself."

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Rhododendron is the Greek name for "rhodon" — rose tree. The rhododendron of ancient writers is the old Greek name for oleander applied by Linnaeus to these plants.

In any gardeners consider rhododendron a tricky or impossible plant to grow. Actually, it is just as easy to grow a showy-flowered rhododendron as it is to grow an azalea, because an azalea is a rhododendron! There seem to be no technical blossom characteristics that warrant a separation of these plants. Most botanists consider azaleas inseparable from rhododendrons, but horticulturists are inclined to retain the name azaleas for the deciduous species as well as the evergreens.

HERE'S A specific example of a home owner who tackled the project of growing a beautiful "Pink Pearl" variety that had been forced to bloom for Easter season sale (He purchased it as an Easter gift for his wife):

The plant was repotted into a larger wood container. The root ball was set out in well-moistened sphagnum peat moss mixed with 10 per cent builder's clean washed sand and thoroughly finger-firmed. The sand

RHODODENDRON . . . Not Difficult to Grow, Despite Its Reputation

diluted iron sulphate in water drinks, three times at six-week intervals during the summer. It was fed lightly five times from early spring throughout the summer season. Any feeding, sulphuring or iron sulphate treating was done a day or two after the melias or other shade-loving plants.

Speaking of container plants, you still have an opportunity to plant some bulbs in pots. One year we planted 20 King Alfred all-yellow daffodils in a 14-inch clay pot. We scattered some plant food low in nitrogen content over a layer of soil in the bottom of the pot, placed an inch of soil over it, then planted the bulbs about six inches deep. The pot was placed under the branches of a large camellia on the north side of the house. The bulbs were thoroughly watered.

with Dutch hyacinths and tulips. Be sure to allow at least an inch or more spacing between the tulip bulbs because the foliage is much larger and wider than daffodils or Dutch hyacinths.

PLANTING GUIDE FOR DECEMBER

SET OUT — Hardy shrubs, trees and vines.

PLANT — Bulbs that are available, into the ground or in pots. Perennials of coral bells, delphiniums, pentstemon, columbine, day lilies, Dianthus rose marie, pinks, carnations, phlox, coreopsis.

SET OUT — Bedding plants of snapdragons, stocks, calendulas, Iceland poppies, pansies, violas, petunias excepting frost-cold areas, all for sunny areas. Bedding plants of cinerarias in frost protected area, primroses of malacoides and obconica, English primroses and English daisies in shade garden sectors.

U.S. BISHOPS SEEK GRANTS

Research Is Promoted on Safer 'Rhythm' Method

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International
In his July encyclical condemning artificial contraception, Pope Paul VI voiced hope that medical science will "succeed in providing a sufficiently secure basis for a regulation of birth founded on the observance of natural rhythms."

America's Catholic bishops are preparing to invest $1 million in bringing that hope to fulfillment. The money will be contributed by dioceses across the nation to a non-profit, non-sectarian foundation which will sponsor research aimed at improving the reliability of the so-called rhythm method of birth control.

The rhythm method, expressly approved by the Pope as a "legitimate use of a natural disposition," requires a couple to limit sex relations to the portions of each menstrual cycle when a woman is naturally infertile.

The rhythm method has acquired the wry nickname "Vatican Roulette" among some Catholic couples who have found it an unreliable way of preventing pregnancy. Its chances derives from the difficulty of pinpointing the "safe period" before and after ovulation in which a woman is unable to conceive.

Various means, such as temperature charts and urine tests, have been developed in the past to assist couples in determining the "safe period." They are considerably more trustworthy than the mere use of a calendar — particularly for women whose menstrual cycles are inclined to be somewhat irregular. But doctors agree that there is a great need for simpler, more fool-proof methods.

Perfecting such methods will be one of the principal aims of the proposed research foundation, according to Dr. Germaine Grisez, associate professor of ethics at Georgetown University. Grisez is assisting Cardinal Patrick O'Boyle of Washington, who was designated by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops to oversee establishment of the foundation.

Another possible research goal, Grisez said, is to find ways in which ovulation may be triggered by hormones or other medicines. This would have the advantage of fixing the time of ovulation beyond question, thus

New Congress Religious 'Lineup'; Gift Bargain, Grape Forum Salute

By LES RODNEY

When the new Congress convenes on Jan. 3, there will be 111 Roman Catholics in the House and Senate, two more than in the previous Congress. However, even though the nation's largest single church has the largest single Congressional contingent, it is technically slightly "underrepresented" in comparison to its membership. Catholics constitute 23 percent of the U.S. population, and 18 percent of the membership of Congress.

Methodists will retain their number two spot, with 90 members in the 91st Congress. Then come 82 Presbyterians, 67 Episcopalians, 53 Baptists, 29 members of the United Church of Christ (mostly Congregationalists), 19 Jews, 14 Lutherans, 13 Christians (Disciples of Christ), 10 Mormons, 7 Unitarians, 6 members of the Churches of Christ, 5 Christian Scientists, 3 Greek Orthodox, 3 Quakers, and 2 members of the Evangelical Free Church.

There will be one member each from the Reformed Church in America, Schwenkfelder Church, Apostolic Christian Church, Christian and Missionary Alliance, Evangelical Covenant Church, and Seventh-day Adventists.

Twelve members of the House and Senate answered the magazine Christianity Today's request by describing themselves ecumenically as simply "Protestants," and three declined to list any religious affiliation. Those churches with a greater proportional representation than their numbers are generally the ones which have been prominent in American government and intellectual life since colonial days.

NEXT WEEK

The Independent, Press-Telegram selects the 10 top religion stories of 1968.

WELCOME BACK Sunday to Long Beach and to the church he pastored for Dr. A. George Downing, executive secretary of the Southern California Baptist Convention (arm of the American Baptist Convention.) He will preach at his old church, Immanuel Baptist, 3215 E. Third St. at the 11 a.m. services, on the topic "Dare We Go to Bethlehem?"

SHOPPING FOR gift bargains we took this record home and heard it. It's called "The Golden Greats," a Columbia Record, and on it are musical contributions by a spectacular lineup of artists, each of whom contributed their bit, as did the publishers, on a royalty-free basis. It's for the benefit of The American Freedom From Hunger Foundation, a church-backed campaign inaugurated by President Kennedy to teach needy people of the world to help themselves.

The lineup — Barbara Streisand, Louis Armstrong, Robert Goulet, Leonard Bernstein conducting the New York Philharmonic, Doris Day, The Dave Brubeck Quartet, Andy Williams (whose idea this record is), The Mormon Tabernacle Choir, Mahalia Jackson, Tony Bennett, Percy Faith, Richard Tucker.

The record is just as good as you'd expect from this listing. Oh, the price. Would you believe $1. That's right, ONE BUCK for this full size long playing collection! It is made available in this area through Church Women United.

NOTE FROM D. C. Smith at George Air Force Base: "For men in the service God is very much alive and this is proven daily in the post libraries wherever our men are stationed. At present here our copies of 'The Bible Story' by A.S. Maxwell are so dog eared that we must replace them but find difficulty in finding any local source, hence this plea. If you have a copy of this book and feel you can part with it please send it on to D.C. Smith, Desert Area Exchange Library, George Air Force Base, California. The books will serve well here."

HERE IS a thought on property and persons from Dr. Richard C. Halverson, in connection with a plea for support of World Vision's work in Asia. He says "So far as Jesus Christ is concerned you cannot pile enough property together to equal the value of one man."

Halverson is far from a mindless denunciation of property, however, just a restating of perspectives. He goes on to say: "Jesus didn't love property. He loved people... and used property. We tend to use property... and love property. Jesus did not die for property. He died for people. Property has its place in the Christian view of life. It is to be treated as a trust from God. It requires careful stewardship. It is to be used to the glory of God... and the benefit of persons."

"Handled any other way it becomes a curse. The value of one man — any man, is incalculable."

PRESS RELATIONS with the U.S. Roman Catholic hierarchy have not reached a happy state of bliss. As a result of a news blackout called by the recent Bishop's Conference in Washington, 30 newsmen covering the event signed a statement authored by Lou Cassels, veteran UPI scribe, saying:

"Reporters covering the conference protest with all possible vigor the bishops' decision to impose a news blackout on today's proceedings. This retreat into secrecy is without precedent, not only in the NCCB's meetings but also in the Vatican Council's later sessions: If the bishops intend to persist in their policy, we request that we be advised in advance, so that we do not waste the money, manpower and resources required to cover press briefings. There is no point in coming to be spoon fed if the spoon is going to be empty."

On the other side of the coin, several of the bishops who can by no means be considered "reactionary," mentioned what they considered sensational-type harassment by some TV reporters on the birth control question before deliberations had even begun.

TWELVE PLANES operating under church sponsorship are bringing a welcome trickle of food through to the starving people of Biafra. The little air fleet consists of seven planes belonging to the Roman Catholic relief agency Caritas and five to a Scandinavian church agency called Nordchurch-aid. It flies a dangerous route from offshore islands over hostile Nigerian territory to primitive landing strips in Biafra.

The dozen planes sneak in about 200 tons of food each night. Funds for the modest airlift are being provided by Catholics through Caritas and through the World Council of Churches.

MANY SIGNIFICANT and informational points were brought up in the Thursday night forum at Grace Methodist on the grape strike and boycott in the Delano area. It's one of the truly "controversial" topics. Aside from the merits of the complicated and bitter situation, high points were the many probing questions from an intelligent, concerned audience, and the tribute by the two growers' representatives (joined in the sentiment by the two farm workers' advocates), thanking the Long Beach church people "for your open mindedness in inviting us to present our case."

LEADS FAMED CORPS BAND

The 40-instrument Congress Hall Salvation Army Band of Los Angeles, led by outstanding cornet soloist, Harry Stillwell Jr. for the past 27 years, will present a concert Sunday, 7 p.m. at First Baptist Church of Lakewood, 5336 Arbor Road, Long Beach. The band has become famous through TV appearances, appearances at Hollywood Bowl, the Rose Bowl and Parade, Los Angeles Music Center, and large religion conventions.

Though the issue was hot, and the four speakers presented strong views, the atmosphere as set by moderator Douglas Chalmers, industrialist and president of the Southland Council of Churches, and maintained throughout the evening, was one of reasoned interchange and courtesy, rather than invective. The large audience was free to draw its conclusions based on the merits of what they heard. In brief, the very model of what a forum should be.

Raps Pike Review

Reader Says Satan Behind Spirits

Dear Les Rodney:

It is a pity that the church news section should be used to review Bishop Pike's book "The Other Side." How can George Cornell, religious writer for Associated Press, be condoned for not giving the scriptural viewpoint? God warns us about treading into extremely dangerous territory — that of the spirit world, and tells us that such activities will increase in the last days in such passages as I Tim. 4:1; Mt. 24:24; Rev. 16:14, and Rev. 13. Spiritualism is forbidden by God in Lev. 20:27 and He considers such practices so criminal as to be worthy of death.

It is a fact that our Western culture in its intolerable intellectual conceit generally scoffs at the existence of a spirit world, and it is also true that there is much fraud among its proponents. But the unwary should believe, if only because the Bible says so, that Satan's dominion is a dreadful fact and that it is not to be discounted as mere superstition or sleight-of-hand.

In spite of the fact that the Bible says that there is no contact with the dead (Ecc. 9:5) the spiritualists claim to have proof of survival after death. We have here with Bishop Pike a typical textbook case in which a person wants to know where their departed loved ones are, whether they are happy beyond the grave, and if they know that those left behind are thinking of them! It is at this time of grief that Satan will say, "I know the answer, I can tell you where to find your loved one, where to see him and how to speak to him. Don't worry about death, because it is all a delusion."

The spiritualism movement actually involves the contacting of demons who are pretending to be the spirits of the dead, and they do a pretty good job of it. The true church of God should not treat too lightly what is one of the most diabolical delusions that Satan is using today.

GOINGS ON

The strong musical tradition of First Methodist, Fifth and Pacific, will be brought to hear Sunday on Part 1 of the soaring Handel oratorio, The Messiah, presented at 4 p.m. by the 80-voice Sanctuary Choir, and four outstanding guest soloists, directed by Rolla Alford. The public is invited, without charge... Noted harpist Harriet Wood will present her celebrated "Christmas Carols Around the World" as guest artist Tuesday of the Schooner Ship of Covenant Presbyterian, Third and Atlantic. This meeting has been opened to the public, with reservations for the 6 p.m. dinner needed by noon Monday. Program follows at 7... the highly praised motion picture "Beyond LSD," which evoked great interest at the recent Theatronics meeting, with its well done, up to the minute approach for adults and youth, will be shown Sunday, 7 p.m. at Palo Verde Avenue Christian, 2501 Palo Verde Ave. Admission of adults $1 and teens 25 cents is for the benefit of "Reconciliation," the Christian Church's two-year national program. Guest at all Sunday's services at First Baptist of Lakewood, 5335 Arbor Road, will be Dr. Kenneth E. Moon, pastor of Northside Baptist of St. Petersburg, Fla., who will be presented to the church as a candidate to fill the position of senior pastor... The revival headed by evangelist Daniel Crow continues every night except Monday at 7:30 p.m. in 1st Pentacostal, 2420 E. 15th St., with prayers for the sick.

MANY WILL testify to its awful reality, and that they have suffered greatly and found it difficult to free themselves from it, even after preliminary investigation. Ouija boards, and psychic book clubs are to be avoided at all cost. Homes have been broken up, and suicide and lunacy have afflicted those who were once in spiritualism and who dare to seek deliverance from its power. Many thousands have been unable to get free from the arch-fiend because they have never been told the saving power of the Lord Jesus Christ.

This is somewhat incredible in this so-called Christian country, but it is nevertheless a sorrowful fact. What is needed today are more 100 percent Christians in the church: willing workers who will stop at nothing to bring Christ to the needy men and women who are all around us.

What Happened When a Church Agreed to House a Drug Clinic?

(Special Report From Pasadena)

PASADENA — What happens when you take an average, middle-class United Methodist congregation, and drop into their laps one of the most controversial and difficult problems facing our society today?

Ask Rev. David Deshler, pastor of Holliston Avenue United Methodist Church of Pasadena. He knows first-hand just how "shook up" a congregation can become when it must come to grips directly with a volatile social issue. He also knows that the confrontation can be very positive.

Pasadena, like all other parts of the Southland, has a drug problem with its youngsters. More and more young people are experimenting with marijuana, glue, hair spray and paint sniffing, LSD and Speed, pills and even some of the hard narcotics. The problem cuts across all social and economic lines. It goes beyond high school into the junior highs, and even reaches into elementary schools. The Pasadena Police Department estimates that 60 per cent of the city's youth have taken some sort of dangerous drug at least once before they graduate from high school.

THE PEOPLE at Holliston Avenue Church located just outside the downtown area of Pasadena, came face to face with the drug problem a couple of months ago. Mr. Deshler approached them on a Sunday morning with a proposal to allow an organization called the Foothill Free Clinic to use the church facilities, two or three nights a week. The clinic would offer free psychological services and information to people in Pasadena and the San Gabriel Valley, specifically in cases of drug use.

A number of church, civic and professional leaders, including Holliston's own ministers, were joined in supporting the idea, and several trained medical and psychiatric people were willing to give of their time to staff the clinic.

For the congregation it meant that a couple of nights each week certain rooms at the church would be occupied by at least some admitted drug users. There were many objections to the proposal, and they provide an insight into the thinking of some church members, not just on drug use, but on the whole question of the involvement of the church in such issues.

Generally, most of the objections fell into three categories. One revolved around the idea of "privatization" of church facilities. That is, this is our church and we don't want any "outsiders" using it. The word "hippy" can be substituted for outsider, since it proved to be a versatile word sufficient for many people to cover the whole spectrum of young people who use drugs.

There was also a great deal of concern with regard to the law. These objections held that drug use is, after all, illegal, and they asked: Wouldn't the church be condoning this type of lawbreaking by hosting the clinic? The sponsors of the clinic met this argument simply by pointing to the scope of the problem and the difficulties inherent in arresting so many thousands of youngsters. Far better, it was felt, to help them if at all possible rather than to punish them.

A third objection, and a surprisingly strong one, had to do with the old Methodist tradition against smoking. Not smoking of marijuana, necessarily, but smoking anything. Some church members just didn't want anyone smoking on the church grounds.

This proved thorny, for if the clinic were to get anywhere at all with a young boy or girl "popping pills or smoking pot," it certainly wouldn't help at the outset to inform the youngster that he may not light up a cigarette. This anti-smoking issue was debated for two hours at one meeting of the congregation, and was finally tabled, unresolved. It turned out to be a fact that the young people who came to the clinic to discuss their use of drugs with the counselors were often very nervous, and they did smoke both in and out of the buildings.

THERE WERE other objections to the clinic, such as those who felt it would somehow contaminate "our" youth to have drug-users frequenting the church grounds, and those who simply felt the church should stick to "religion." But the first three categories contained the most heated opposition.

However, the fact is that nearly three-quarters of the people at Holliston felt the clinic was a worthwhile idea, something the church should be doing. They supported the project and the vocal opposition was far outnumbered by those who felt it a Christian duty for the church to involve itself in just such social issues as drug use.

The Foothill Free Clinic was established, initially at Holliston Church, and it continues in operation today. During the two months it was at Holliston it was attended by some 75 young people each week. Many came with their parents. Many parents came without their children. Those who staffed the clinic soon learned that a majority of the young people using some kind of drugs are not runaways, but are living at home, and often those homes are middle class or well-to-do.

The clinic has moved to another location now, not because the church changed its mind, but because of a desire of those operating the clinic to find a permanent building free from ties to any institution. There was, however, increased opposition to the clinic with the congregation when an evaluation meeting was held after two months of operation. Those opposing the clinic at the church, and particularly those who opposed a planned expansion of its operation to include free medical services, now numbered perhaps 40 per cent of the members, compared with the original 25 per cent.

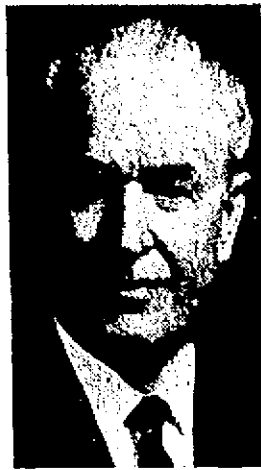

BUT A majority of the congregation still favored the project and the work of the clinic continues to have the active support of Holliston's ministers and many of its members.

And Mr. Deshler feels the experience was a healthy one for his congregation. He sums it up this way:

"I was really pleased that we had this very real encounter. I think it caused the people of the church to talk to each other more seriously about the mission of the church than practically anything we've done in a long time."

"I wish every congregation would have to deal with a request by a free clinic to use its facilities because I think it brings into question in a very sharp-focused way what your church exists for, and for whom. In addition it raises the whole question of the relevance of the youth ministry within a congregation to the real scene."

A church congregation he feels, has been revitalized through its encounter with a pressing social issue, and a couple of dozen, perhaps more, young people have been helped as a result.

TELLS ABOUT RED LANDS

Otis Gatewood, evangelist and author, will speak at three Long Beach Churches of Christ on "The Gospel for the Iron Curtain Nations." He will preach Sunday, 10:45 a.m. in Central Church of Christ, 501 Atlantic Ave., Sunday night at North Long Beach Church of Christ, 1128 E. Artesia Blvd., and Wednesday night at Uptown Church of Christ, 3707 Atlantic Ave.

Reform Temple Presidents Meet

Presidents of Reform temples affiliated with the Union of American Hebrew Congregations in the Southeast and South Bay regions will hold a dinner meeting at 6 p.m. Tuesday in Brower's restaurant, Long Beach.

They will discuss musical problems and exchange ideas. Presidents scheduled to attend include Robert Bearson of Long Beach's Temple Israel, Henry L. Bear of Downey's Temple Ner Tamid, William Byer of San Pedro's Temple Beth El and Clarke Kates of Temple Menorah in Redondo Beach.

BIRTH CONTROL

making the rhythm method "secure."

The contraceptive pills now in wide use act by suppressing ovulation. This was condemned by the Pope as an unlawful intervention in a natural process. Grisez suggested that hormonal triggering of ovulation would not meet the same theological objections as suppression.

A third objective probably would be to determine with much greater precision the effective life of spermatozoa. Because medical science is doubtful on this point, practitioners of the rhythm method either have to add a substantial safety margin to the time of presumed fertility — or take chances.

Grisez emphasized that it will require far more than $1 million to make any real headway on rhythm research. The $1 million contributed by Catholic dioceses, he said, is only "seed money" to get the foundation started.

"Since it will be an independent, non-profit, non-sectarian organization, the foundation will be eligible to receive research grants from Federal government agencies or from private philanthropic funds," he said. "We hope that substantial funds will be forthcoming from these sources."

"Various federal agencies are now spending many millions of dollars of tax money each year to supply contraceptive information and devices to people both in this country and abroad," he said. "Much of this money is being spent in ways that Catholics deplore. Certainly Congress can also finance scientific research to assist women who prefer to regulate births by the natural methods approved by the church."

NAVAL STATION PRESENTS 'JOAN'

John Vesey, actor and manager of the Alpha-Omega Players of North Hollywood, brings the acclaimed troupe to the Long Beach Naval Station's Grace Chapel Sunday, 8:30 p.m. to put on highlights from George Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan, the dramatic story of the Maid of Orleans' faith. All Naval personnel, active and retired, and families, are invited.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Why Not Give It Another Try?

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

Your chances of really getting somewhere in life can hinge on your reaction when some shattering setback hits you. Will you give up or will you keep on trying? It's as simple as that.

In a magazine article I read about the thrilling career of Hayes Jones. Back in 1960 this man was the phenomenon of the year in high hurdles racing. He won race after race. He broke records. He was, in fact, sensational. Naturally he was picked for the Olympic Games held that year at Rome. There he ran in the 110-meter high hurdles amid worldwide expectations that he would carry off the gold medal.

But surprisingly he didn't. He finished third. It was a terrible disappointment. His first thought was: "So what! I might as well quit running." There would be no more Olympics for four long years. Besides he had already won all the other coveted high hurdles championships. Why subject himself to four more strenuous years of keeping in top form? The sensible thing was to forget it and get started in a business career.

THIS WAS plain logic for sure. But Hayes Jones couldn't settle for it. "You can't be logical," he says, "about something you've wanted all your life."

So he started training again, three hours a day, seven days a week. And in the next couple of years he made some new records in the 60-yard and 70-yard high hurdles.

Came the night of February 22, 1964 at Madison Square Garden. Jones was competing in the 60-yard high hurdles. He had announced that this would be his last indoor race. Tension ran high; every eye was on him. And he won, tying his own previous all-time record.

Then a strange thing happened. In those days in the old Garden, when runners had crossed the finish line they disappeared under a ramp before they could slow down and stop. Walking back into the stadium Jones stood for a moment with head bowed, acknowledging the applause. Then 17,000 people, packing the garden, stood in tribute. Jones wept. Many spectators wept too because a once-defeated man was still in it.

He entered the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo and ran the 110-meter high hurdles in 13.6 seconds, finishing first — winning his gold medal.

After that he went to work for an airline as a sales representative in Detroit. Presently he offered to help as a volunteer in the city's physical fitness program. His activities got spectacular results. Mayor Lindsay heard of it — and now Hayes Jones, on leave of absence from his airline job, is doing a two-year stint as New York City's commissioner of recreation.

IN A RECENT speech to a crowd of young men he quoted some lines from a poem by Robert W. Service which all of us could do well to tuck into our minds:

It's the plugging away that will win you the day.

So don't be a piker, ol' pard!

Just call on your grit; it's so easy to quit.

It's the keeping-your-chin-up that's hard.

It's easy to cry that you're beaten — and die;

It's easy to crawl and crawl;

But to fight and fight when hope's out of sight —

Why, that's the best game of all!

And although you come out of each grueling bout

All broken and beaten and scarred.

Just have one more try — it's so easy to die,

It's the keeping-on-living that's hard.

Hayes Jones' story brings to mind some lines from Goethe: "Austere perseverance, harsh and continuous, may be employed by the smallest of us and rarely fails of its purpose, for its silent power grows irresistibly greater with time."

City College Players Present First-Rate 'Thousand Clowns'

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Drama Critic

There's much first-rate clowning in "A Thousand Clowns," now on stage at Long Beach City College, along with a witty penetrating look at the "turned off" generation.

As deftly directed by Shashin Desai, "Clown" is played for laughs — of a sophisticated variety appealing to young adults. Action and dialogue sparkle most of the time.

On a deeper level, there are insights offered into the thought processes of those who today reject or turn away from the values of what they consider a materialistic society. Nothing new, perhaps, but it's a fresh look at a significant segment of our and youthful rebellion. But unlike many another play, novel or movie built around this idea, "Clown" does not end on a completely happy note.

Turned off unemployed TV writer-comic Murray Burns and his 11-year-old nephew, Nick, are caught up with bureaucracy, fighting off attempts by the New York children's bureau to put the lad in a "more suitable home."

Pat Lang as Murray displays controlled exuberance, alternating smoothly between roaring buffoon and sensitive man who is forced to sharply examine his way of life.

STAGE newcomer Stephen Rabin, "borrowed" from Mark Twain Elementary, is endearingly effective as the independent-minded, intellectually included boy. He strongly projects Nick as both the source of conflict with authority and Uncle Murray's buffer between reality and his own personal dream world.

Social workers Sandra and Albert would remove young Nick from Bohemia, but she, of course has a change of heart, becoming almost emancipated from middle-class standards before the play ends. Even Albert re-examines himself, realizing he too is a stuffed shirt unable to do much about it.

To save the day, to keep Nick at home, Murray must go back to work — an idea he loathes. His long-suffering brother, Arnold, a successful show biz agent, can find him a job — with the problem, considering his viewpoint, to hold it for even two days.

Murray's ex-boss Leo, a screwball children's entertainer, may pull it off, with Murray going back on the "Chip-Chip-Chip-permunk" video show.

In one of the play's most delightful scenes, Wim Griffith as Leo, dressed in high mod, psychedelically hued clothing, confronts Murray. It's very funny, yet sad too, for Leo reveals himself as yet another insecure faker who can't help himself.

Totalling the show's points, I'd rate "A Thousand Clowns" well above average in its smooth craftsmanship, recommend it to young and sophisticated audiences.

Pearl Movie Uses Replica of 'Arizona'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A full-size replica of the stern of the battleship Arizona, sunk in the Japanese raid on Pearl Harbor, will be built for a motion picture of the attack.

The Dillingham Corp. of Honolulu said the mockup will be mounted on three barges for its appearance in the movie "Tora! Tora! Tora!"

The mast superstructure of the USS Tennessee also will be built for the picture which starts filming today in Washington, D.C., and Kyoto, Japan.

BOOK REVIEWS Franco's Spain: a Grim Insight

DEATH ROW: SPAIN 1936. By Patricio P. Escobar. Translated from the Spanish by Tana de Gamaz. Bobbs-Merrill, $6.95.

Twenty-six years ago Arthur Koestler published "Death Row," that classic of suffering (his own) in a Spanish fascist prison, a book in which he wrote of long weeks in solitary, witnessing the executions of fellow prisoners and expecting his own at any moment, for he was under a sentence of death.

"Death Row: Spain 1936" joins the ranks of first-rate prison journals. Patricio Pedro Escobar, who had been an Olympic soccer player, was, when the Spanish Civil War began, a municipal engineer in one of the provinces (Logrono), a rank-and-file follower of the Spanish left, a husband and father. He was imprisoned a few days after the fascists started their uprising, on the framed-up charge that he had burned a convent from which, actually, he had helped the nuns to escape. Like Koestler, he was sentenced to death — the Franco regime executed an estimated million people, including women and children.

TAKEN LARGELY from notes he wrote during his imprisonment, "Death Row" recounts the unrelenting sadism of the Franco prison; the lice and rat-infested conditions; the daily readings of the lists of those who were to be shot that evening. It is an understated account, building up to a horror like that told by Dostoevsky. Like Dostoevsky, Escobar twice was taken to

Mehta Conducts Brahms, Mendelssohn, Penderecki

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

During the past two seasons Zubin Mehta has brought to the regular Pavilion concerts of the Los Angeles Philharmonic increasingly novel programming.

Which may account in part for Mehta's continuing hold on his largely sophisticated and discerning subscription audiences.

The Indian conductor has continued, naturally, to specialize in music of the late Romantics — Bruckner, Mahler and Strauss — but he has varied this Germanic diet with concert readings of operatic works, with choral pieces and oratorios, and with selected works from our own century.

MEHTA'S pair of Music Center programs this week illustrate his happy penchant for unhackneyed programming. They listed Mendelssohn's early Octet (arranged for string orchestra), the first local performance of Krzysztof Penderecki's colorful "De Natura Sonoris" and the Violin Concerto of Brahms. The concerto is, of course, the most standard of standard works, and never absent from Philharmonic programs for long. But in this context, and played with uncommon ease and accuracy by Itzhak Perlman, it sounded fresh on the ear.

Mehta proved pragmatic rather than aggressive about the balances between soloist and orchestra, and about internal balances too (for the second time this year I had the impression he is indifferent to this work), yet the performance went along nonetheless.

IN PURE sound, the Octet sang in this hall with the same polish we admired last week when the orchestra played Mozart's 39th symphony. Still, one ought to point out that, since Mendelssohn's adult oeuvre contains all of eleven string symphonies as well as five genuine symphonies, to raid the composer's juvenilia for the sake of variety seems unnecessary. Certainly no one can claim an octet blown up eight times its original size gains in clarity or effectiveness. Penderecki's nine-minute piece made a grand splash with Thursday night's audience. And why not? Its sound profile is mildly unconventional, but not at all unpleasant. It is hardly noisy, despite Nicholas Slonimsky's wordy program notes calling it so. And its real virtues — self-containedness and continuity — are apparent upon first hearing.

Besides, Penderecki himself has the prestigious credentials of a successful Philharmonic hearing (last year) and the approval of Time magazine. Of course we liked it, my dear; it's IN.

NORTH STARS 'L.B. NIGHT' OPPONENTS 'Ironjaw' Sparks King Attack

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

Young Jimmy Peters clenched his broken jaw and, like a red-blooded big league hockey player, said, "It's nothing at all."

His father would have been proud.

Peters, 24, and the son of a former National Hockey League player, will be at center for the Kings against the Minnesota North Stars tonight at 8.

It's "Long Beach Night" at the Forum, meaning Jack Kent Cooke would have seen of special events scheduled if the hockey game wasn't in the way.

Getting back to Peters, he was acquired in the pre-season deal that sent Terry Sawchuk to Detroit. His father, James Sr., now a tool and die salesman, played right wing in the National Hockey League for 10 years with four clubs.

Jimmy, too, has been on the move, wearing five different uniforms in the last three seasons.

"I was really happy to be traded," he says. "Detroit was pretty strong down center ice."

anybody. His six goals are second only to Ed Joyal's nine. He got the last two in last week's 4-2 loss to Pittsburgh the day after it was learned he had a broken jaw.

"It's nothing at all," he said through a football face-bar attached to a hockey helmet. "I didn't have to have it wired shut or anything like that."

"In fact, the first time I got hit I went to the dentist. I thought it was my

DELVECCHIO'S SKEIN TO END

DETROIT (UPI) — Durable Alex Delvecchio, who has only missed 26 of a possible 1,886 National Hockey League games over 18 seasons, will be sitting out his first game in four seasons when the Detroit Red Wings travel to Boston and New York this weekend.

Delvecchio, who celebrated his 37th birthday last Wednesday, was checked heavily into the boards Thursday night and emerged with badly bruised ribs.

Punchless Flyers Blanked by Seals

OAKLAND (UPI) — Big Gary Smith posted Oakland's first shutout of the season as the Seals defeated Philadelphia, 4-0, Friday night.

Smith has been in the nets during six of the seven games the Seals have won this season. The victory pushed Oakland into second place over the idle Kings in the West Division of the National Hockey League.

Auerbach 'Subs' for Russell, Celtics Win

Combined News Services

The Boston Celtics have gained fame for their effective subs, and old Red Auerbach does pretty good in that category too.

Celtic player-coach Bill Russell was sidelined with the flu Friday night and Red took over on the bench. The Celtics responded with a 132-118 victory over Detroit.

Making Auerbach's task easier was the fact Piston scoring ace Dave Piston was sidelined with the flu.

Auerbach now has a 2-0 record as a sub coach since stepping up to the general manager's job after the 1965-66 season.

In other NBA games, Seattle beat San Francisco 109-100 in overtime; San Diego downed Phoenix 117-106; and Philadelphia outscored Milwaukee 121-112.

Bob Rule and Tommy Kron each scored six points in overtime to lead Seattle. The Warriors were without four regulars and coach George Lee was thrown out with 3:20 left in overtime when he protested an offensive foul that sent Rudy LaRusso to the sidelines.

Jim Barnett scored 27 points to lead San Diego.

American Trotting Classic Runs Second to Dense Fog

For the second time in two weeks, dense fog caused cancellation of a Western Harness Racing program at Hollywood Park Friday night. A crowd of 11,794 was in attendance.

The fog became so thick after the third race that the board of stewards, following a 10-minute delay, termed conditions "too hazardous" to continue and the final six races were cancelled.

Western Harness' $75,000 American Trotting Classic, scheduled as Friday night's sixth race, was rescheduled for tonight — to be staged between two night's fourth and fifth races — and listed as a "special" wagering race.

Presiding steward Harry Hatch said he drove around the track in an automobile and commented, "I couldn't see a length in front of me. The fog was far worse than when we cancelled the last three races Nov. 23."

would like to have me assist."

Eckert also refused comment on the disposal of his four-year contract ($65,000 annually), future provisions for his staff and the possibility of remaining in baseball in another capacity.

Frances Dale, president of the Cincinnati Reds, gave Eckert a glowing tribute and outlined plans for baseball's reorganization as spokesman for the owners.

"Gen. Eckert's statement that a bold and imaginative restructuring of baseball is needed and that a baseball man can more effectively do the job is entirely consistent with the dedication he has displayed during his three years in office."

"His offer to be available to the owners is most appreciated and his experience during the fast moving days of expansion will be of great value."

"The owners have acceded to the general's wishes and have accepted his resignation, effective upon the appointment of his successor. The owners publicly express their appreciation and affection for Gen. Eckert and hold him in the highest esteem, especially for the integrity and honor with which he has conducted our affairs."

Dale said the new owners' planning committee calls for "bold and immediate action to do away with traditional procedures which now require separate league consideration of matters which concern baseball as a whole."

"The committee will explore ways to modernize the presentation of the game, consider immediate reorganization of the governing bodies and revisions of the constitutions of baseball to consolidate the offices and staffs of all major and minor league executives."

Dale quoted one young owner, who he refused to identify:

"It's obvious that none of these fine business men would permit in their organizations the kind of inefficiency and duplication we have allowed to creep into major league organization."

Today's meeting was like a breath of fresh air. The ex-commissioner might have wishes to argue that point.

DEFENSEMAN Terry Harper's knee has been put in a cast for approximately two weeks following corrective surgery, the Montreal Canadiens announced Friday.

The defenseman has been dropped from the lineup for four to six weeks.

THE AMATEUR Athletic Union Friday issued a statement which said it "reluctantly" accepted a federal arbitration board's decision aimed at bringing peace between the AAU and the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

NATIONAL RIDING TITLE Cordero, Pineda Continue Battle

United Press International

The coast-to-coast battle for the national riding championship continues.

Alvaro Pineda had one winner at Bay Meadows Friday and Angel Cordero scored a victory at New York's Aqueduct Park. That left Cordero three up, 305 to 302.

Cordero rode Calumet Farm's Sweet Tooth to a neck victory in the feature at Aqueduct.

Cordero rides King Ranch's Muse today in the 14th running of the $56,000 Display Handicap at two miles. Only five horses were named for the final stakes race of the New York season. The Aqueduct meet got underway today was extended two days to make up for those lost when the track closed in respect to the late Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King, following their assassinations.

No filly ever has won the Display but Muse is given a good chance. Fast Count is favored at 2-1 with Muse second choice at 5-2.

Sly Bird, Suteki and Fort Drum complete the field.

After today, Cordero plans to continue his quest for the jockey title by riding in Puerto Rico Sunday and then at Tropical Park in Florida.

Mr. Joe F. Proud Animal and Field, each at 120, head the field of 11 for the $20,000-added San Mateo Stakes, a one-mile race for 2-year-olds at Bay Meadows.

The $10,000-added Gold Coast Handicap at Tropical Park has attracted 11 for the 4-furlong dash for 3-year-olds. Laughing Bull, 120, Another Nell, 118 and Subject, 117, are the favorites.

Bears Prove 'Fighting' Team

By AL LARSON
Staff Writer

The National Football League owes the Chicago Bears 46 seconds of playing time. Fisticuffs cut short their encounter with Dallas two weeks ago in Chicago.

Linebacker Doug Buffone was involved in the first of two brawls at the end. The encore was a free-for-all which got so far out of hand that the officials ended the game with 46 seconds on the clock.

The Ram-Bear series has been packed with thrills.

Who can forget, 1958 when 100,470 jammed the Coliseum and saw Jon Arnett put on a dazzling running display as the Rams outscored the Bears 41-35?

Or 1949 when Jerry Co-whig's short touchdown burst provided the Rams with a come-from-behind 27-35 victory and their first conference title?

Low point in the rivalry dating back to 1946 (from a Rams' standpoint) was in 1963 when Mike Ditka caught four touchdowns passes and Chicago swiped six passes en route to a 52-14 triumph, the most lopsided defeat suffered by either club in this series.

In 43 league meetings, the Bears hold a whopping 27-14-2 bulge. At the Coliseum the advantage favors the Bears, 12-7-1.

WITH 20 players battling the flu virus, the Rams have slipped from 14 to 12-point favorites Sunday.

Former Ram receiver Bucky Pope has been activated by Green Bay. The San Diego Chargers have added ex-Poly High and LBCC backfield star Gerry McDougall to their active roster.

Tommy McDonald, fifth leading pass receiver of all-time, will make his first start of the season Sunday when Cleveland plays at Washington. The former Ram pass catcher replaces injured Eddie Barney at flanker. Tommy has four catches this year, running his 12-year total to 492.

The Bears lead the NFL in most yardage gained rushing (2093) and best average per game on the ground (174).

Since losing its only game to Cleveland, 30-20, on Oct. 20, the Baltimore figures tell the story: 6 victories, 172 points scored, 29 allowed, 3 shut-outs (most since '62 Packers; league record is 7 by 1934 Detroit Lions), allowed only 2 touchdowns (none by rushing), and no TDs in last 3 games.

The 117 points permitted by Colts puts them within range of NFL 14-game record of least points allowed: 144 by '63 Bears.

Roman's Uniform Clean, Thanks to That Ram Line

By SUZANNE GABRIEL
Mrs. Ram Quarterback

Ram fans finally had a relaxing afternoon last Sunday.

For the first time since the second game of the season we could actually sit and enjoy the event.

That is, those of us who were watching the game on television could sit and enjoy the game. Those poor folk in Minnesota looked rather cold.

The games the previous two Sundays, against San Francisco and New York, were so close that most Ram fans worked up a sweat.

No one was sweating Sunday.

The offense and defense finally got together. And Roman got wonderful pass protection. He looked like a bleach ad behind the front line in its grimy uniforms. I found myself repeating "Look how white he is! Look how white he is!"

The front line play was just great. And it was nice to see the holes open up and Willie Ellison and Dick Bass plow throw.

Roman and the coaches have kept after Willie, for they know he has the tools to be an effective halfback.

Roman commented, "I've really been on him, but the reason is his great ability. He's now playing the kind of football you've got to have to make a running attack in this league."

Wendell Tucker got a chance to prove what he could do. And he proved it.

Wendell got open downfield on corner patterns all afternoon, and with his speed he caught three touchdown passes. He and Harold Jackson, another sprinter recently activated, have been staying after practice each day and working with Roman on pass patterns.

Roger Brown is looking forward with double anticipation to Sunday's game. He'll be knocking heads with Chicago guard George Selis, who at 270 almost matches him in weight, and at halftime he'll join his Ram mates in presenting a team trophy to the man whose place he took in the defensive line—Roosevelt Grier.

A crowd of 65,000 is expected and 12,000 reserve seats go on sale Sunday morning at the Coliseum. The Rams' defense limited Minnesota to 43 yards rushing and 47 passing, the Vikings' second lowest offensive output in eight seasons. Leroy Kelly's 4 TDs last week brought his season total to 18, his personal high, and leaves him just 4 off Sybert's league record of 22 in 1965.

Injured Battle Casey, on his substitute Wendell Tucker's four recollections, all for touchdowns, in the last two games: "He's had a great teacher—me!"

The Rams have their eye on USC's light end, Bob Klein, and Oregon State fullback, Bill Wray, whom they feel would make an excellent linebacker in the pros.

PACK FACES AXE Colts, Packers Vie in TV Game

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) Baltimore's big, bruising Colts invade Green Bay today to take on the crippled Packers in a nationally-televised National Football League game that could spell the end of Green Bay's long title reign.

NFL champions for the past three years and two-time Super Bowl winners, the Packers are on the verge of being eliminated from the Central Division race. Green Bay, with a 5-6-1 record, is one-half game behind division co-leaders Minnesota and Chicago. It is the first time the Packers have lost six games in one season since 1958, the year before Vince Lombardi arrived in this Wisconsin community.

As head coach and general manager, Lombardi molded the Packers into a dynasty. Following last season's NFL and Super Bowl crowns, Lombardi relinquished the coaching reins to his assistant, Phil Bengtson.

However, the demise of the Packers cannot all be blamed on the loss of Lombardi's dynamic field personality. Don Chandler, the field goal specialist retired along with guard Fuzzy Thurston and end Max McGee.

Mary Prentiss Suffers Defeat in Net Tourney

LA JOLLA (UPI) — Second-seeded Mary Prentiss, San Clemente, was upset Friday in the quarter finals of the women's singles at the national senior hardcourt tennis championships by unseeded Carol Schneider, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Prentiss, winner of the title 13 years ago and a runnerup nine times, was ousted 4-6, 6-2, 8-6.

In the quarter finals of the men's singles, there were two upsets. Third-seeded Bob Galloway, La Jolla, was eliminated by seventh-seeded Glenn Hittenstein, Fresno, 6-4, 6-4. Fourth-seeded Louis Schopfer, Memphis Tenn., went down before fifth-seeded Dave Martin, Calimesa, Calif., 7-5, 6-3.

Badger Coach Gains Backing

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The University of Wisconsin board of regents gave what amounted to a vote of confidence to head football coach John Coatta Friday.

However, there were indications there could be other changes on the coaching staff.

One of Coatta's assistants, Gene Felker, resigned from the staff Thursday night in a surprise move.

El Camino, ELA Favored in Semis

El Camino is a slight favorite over Fresno City College in their state semifinal football playoff today, 1 p.m., at Fresno.

Tonight at 8 in the Citrus Stadium, Citrus hosts East Los Angeles in the other game. ELA is favored.

CARDS LOSE END WILLIAMS

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals reported Friday that split end Dave Williams will miss the rest of the season.

Exploratory surgery was performed Friday on Williams' locked left knee and the Cardinals reported that nothing abnormal was found.

Channel 2, 11 a.m.

Then injuries struck with a vengeance along the defensive line. Place kicking became a lost art and quarterback Bart Starr, one of pro football's best, was repeatedly sidelined with a series of ailments.

Starr probably will be watching from the sidelines when Green Bay attempts to stay in the race. His sore ribs were aggravated in last week's loss to San Francisco and forced him out after he completed two of four passes for 17 yards.

"He hasn't thrown at all this week," a Green Bay spokesman said. "He probably won't try to throw until pre-game warmups."

Replacing Starr will be Zeke Bratkowski, whose title as "super-sub" has been taken over by Baltimore's Earl Morrall.

Like Starr, Baltimore's Johnny Unitas will be riding the bench when the game gets under way. Morrall, picked up during the summer for protection, has led the Colts to a glossy 11-1 record and first place in the Coastal Division.

Since losing to Cleveland in October, Baltimore's defense has given up only 29 points and has shut out three opponents. The offense hasn't been idle, either, piling up 172 points in the six victories.

The Colts, in order to win their conference, will have to beat Los Angeles next week regardless what happens in Green Bay Saturday. But Baltimore has a special reason for winning this week's game.

PENN STATE SHOOTS FOR CLEAN SLATE

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Penn State is a one-touchdown favorite to defeat Syracuse today and wrap up the Nittany Lions' ninth unbeaten football team since they began playing the game in 1887.

Unbeaten in nine games and headed for an Orange Bowl date New Year's night with Kansas, Penn State is counting on the running of halfbacks Charlie Pittman and Bob Campbell against one of the nation's top defensive teams.

Channel 7, 9 a.m.

This game, originally scheduled for October, was switched to December to accommodate the NCAA's national television program.

A victory over Syracuse would make the 1968 team the biggest winner in Penn State football history with the Orange Bowl game still to go.

Besides its fine offense, including all-America tight end Ted Kwalick, State has a tough defense, second in the nation against rushing and seventh at keeping opponents from its end zone. Linebacker Dennis Okontz, also an all-America, keys the defense, along with second-team AA Mike Reid, a defensive tackle.

Grambling, Sacto in Pasadena Bowl

Led by a 6-4, 215-pound quarterback, James Harris, Grambling College goes into the newly named Pasadena Bowl today favored to defeat Sacramento State College's Hornets.

Formerly known as the Junior Rose Bowl, which featured junior college teams, the game matches Louisiana's Grambling from the Southwestern Athletic Conference and Sacramento of the Far Western Conference.

Each team had a regular season record of 8-2. Grambling's Tigers dropped their first two games and won the next eight.

"Momentum is a big thing and I hope we can keep it going," said Grambling coach Eddie Robinson. "I don't think we are in a position to take Sacramento lightly and we have no intention of doing so." "Win, lose or draw, the privilege of playing in the Pasadena Bowl is a big honor for the team and also the college," coach Ray Clemons of Sacramento added.

Week's Wall Street Trend

By ED MORSE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week shed off from making a new record or of a millennium of "Dow 1,000" but a fair degree of optimism remained that these after the market consolidations could be attained dates.

Analysis pointed out that the Dow Jones industrial average had climbed 36.67 points in the four weeks prior to the one just ended. Therefore, it came as no great surprise to many that the average this week declined 6.84 to 978.24.

This was a moderate correction of a huge advance and fits into the pattern of market behavior, purely on a technical basis, they noted.

The decline, however, was triggered by surprise news of higher interest rates. The stock market always dislikes dearer money. The major commercial banks boosted their "prime" rate — the rate they charge their biggest and best corporate customers — to 6 1/4 per cent from 6 1/4 per cent.

When the news came on Monday, the stock market was advancing vigorously. Even as the news came and was digested, there was no panicky rush for the exits on the New York Stock Exchange. The bond market responded immediately by taking a steep dive. Only later in the day did the stock market part away its gains and settle down to a slight loss. Another moderate decline came on Tuesday. This was in advance of the Wednesday closing in order to catch up with paperwork. A stiffer setback came on Thursday and on big volume, exceeding 19 million shares — but this was the usual thing after a midweek closing when institutional investors pile up orders while the markets are closed.

The market week ended with a minor advance on Friday, helped to some extent by news of rising steel prices which gave the steel stocks a modest lift.

While some analysts had cheerfully predicted that the Dow industrials would reach 1,000 this week, others cautioned that the last 10 or 15 points before such a milestone were the hardest.

Kenneth Ward of Hayden Stone said, "One should remember that a rather formidable barrier of technical and psychological resistance looms just ahead of around 1,000 in the Dow Jones industrial average."

Of 1,719 issues traded this week on the New York Stock Exchange, 856 declined and 746 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 325 and new lows 18.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week fell 1.8 to 367.0 — its first weekly decline in five weeks.

Technical Analysis with Paule, Webber, Jackson & Curtis

Seasonal cross-currents are beginning to influence the shorter term picture. Tax-selling and window-dressing by institutions could result in a somewhat erratic shorter term price trend. However, without any serious technical deterioration the over-all market outlook will remain positive and still higher levels will be expected.

The shorter term picture has turned less dynamic, but is not yet weak. Despite the recent pressure even the shorter term picture remains more positive than negative. The lack of any significant downside or upside momentum suggests more of a minor term stalemate than a downturn. A stalemate is usually characterized by a period of consolidation and churning. Therefore, until volume begins to accelerate on the upside or downside no more than a neutral and sideways price pattern can be predicted. Continued consolidation and correction at current levels will provide an even stronger basis for the typical year-end rally.

RECENT TAPE ACTION continues to indicate a favorable trend in the area of institutional trading. Larger block transactions continue to maintain a positive bias even during a period of general market weakness. This is a very bullish note and it supports the expectation of still higher levels. Among the stocks under significant accumulation which are regarded favorably on a technical basis are: Pan American World Airways, GAF Corp., Thiokol, Brunswick, Benguet, Varian.

Recent gains in many of the aerospace issues have carried most above previous recovery highs on improving tape action. This suggests some shorter term potential in a generally oversold group. However, only a technical rebound is expected over the shorter term and thus the group is considered more attractive on a longer term than a shorter term basis.

Particular relative strength has been evident in United Aircraft, Northrop and McDonnell Douglas. Having already made substantial gains these issues appear due for some shorter term consolidation or correction. However, on a longer term basis these issues are expected to be the best over-all recovery candidates.

ONE ISSUE, General Dynamics, appears to have shown particularly good relative strength on a shorter term basis. The recent advance has carried the stock above a previous rally high and has carried it out of a small trading pattern that would support a move into the mid 50s. This issue is recommended for a shorter term trading in this area provided a stop-loss is placed at the 42 level.

Trading profits should be taken in Fairchild Camera and International Industries. Both stocks have reached their near term objective. Until some consolidation or correction provides the technical basis for further strength they will be removed from our list. Magnavox, Eastern Airlines and Brunswick are still recommended on a near to medium term trading basis. Seaboard World Airlines has started to show some relative weakness during the recent strength and is being deleted on a trading basis until it appears more dynamic.

TWO CLUBS SHARE NAME

Queenly Bit of Confusion

Friendly Rivals for Mary...

By SHERM WILLIAMS
Staff Writer

The Queen Mary Club is having a dance tonight to celebrate the arrival of the giant liner in Long Beach.

The Queen Mary Club is having a dinner Monday night to celebrate the ditto, ditto, ditto.

One very busy club? No. Two. And this has been the source of some amiable confusion to two organizations devoted to perpetuating the traditions and history of the giant liner which is so much a part of Long Beach's hopes.

"Okay," you say. "Let's eliminate this confusion."

"Will the REAL Queen Mary Club please stand up?"

That would bring all sorts of people to their feet.

"We are just as real as could be," Ernie Tomlinson would say.

His British accent is unmistakable. "We are officially chartered by the State of California as a nonprofit corporation and we have a letter of permission to use the name 'Queen Mary' from the City of Long Beach.

"We are the Queen Mary Club of Long Beach."

That would seem to wrap it up.

But, then you would hear Ann Bishop, secretary of the Queen Mary Club, not Tomlinson's group, say, "We, too, are real. Just as real as they."

Her club is the Queen Mary Club of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce. It doesn't have a separate state charter, but operates under theegis of the Chamber.

How do you tell them apart? First, you learn to look for that "... of Long Beach" or "... of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce."

Then you check your budget.

The "... of Long Beach" club associates easily with fish and chips. The "... Chamber of Commerce" club tends more toward filet mignon.

It is pointed up in this weekend's celebrations.

The "... of Long Beach" club, made up predominantly of Britishers, is sponsoring the dance tonight to commemorate the anniversary of the arrival of the ship. The four-hour-long dance with refreshments, in Morgan Hall, will cost $1.50.

The "... Chamber of Commerce" club is staging the dinner Monday night in the Lafayette Hotel. It will cost $8.50 a head or $87.50 for a table of 10 to break bread with that group, made up mostly of persons who made that last, expensive trip aboard the liner.

That pretty much explains the difference.

'Queen' Items Still on Sale

More than $50,000 worth of items from the Queen Mary have been sold, but new articles are being brought out daily, city officials said Friday.

The sale is taking place in a leased warehouse at 3200 E. Spring St., between Cherry and Redondo avenues.

A 100-foot sign, visible from San Diego Freeway, designates the Queen Mary Sales Center.

Because of some confusion on the part of would-be customers, the city emphasized the sales center is open on weekends, but is closed Monday and Tuesday.

Hours are from noon to 6 p.m. on weekdays, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturdays and from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sundays.

Silverware, glassware, furniture and linens are among the items from the Queen Mary's seafaring days which have been on sale since Nov. 30.

Sales can be by cash, by BankAmericard or Master Charge card, or by personal check, if the buyer has proper identification.

L.B. Soldier Killed

Army Sgt. Terrance L. Mercke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Mercke, of 7232 Metz St., has been killed in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department reported Friday.

Doctor's Gift Hope for Youth

By ANNE HOWE
Staff Writer

Doors close at the Community Hospital Psychiatric Clinic Jan. 1, but the door to emotional health will remain open to the clinic's 280 young patients, thanks to a Long Beach doctor's Christmas present.

Dr. Irving Moskowitz, who read about the clinic's plight in the Independent Press-Telegram, has donated rent-free space in his medical building until new clinic headquarters are ready in 1970 at Memorial Hospital.

The clinic, which treats youngsters ranging in age from toddlers to teenagers, was faced with a year's dormancy when Community Hospital announced it needed the clinic's office space for other purposes.

OUTLOOK was bleak for children undergoing professional counseling, therapy and other treatments for emotional disorders.

Then came Dr. Moskowitz' Christmas gift of office space at 5887 Atlantic Ave.

"We are deeply appreciative of his generous offer," David S. Dallai, the clinic's executive director, said.

"We are thankful we'll be able to continue serving the children of Long Beach and Lakewood without interruption."

At present, 100 children are receiving weekly treatments. Twenty-five are awaiting diagnosis, and another 20 are already processed and awaiting treatment.

"Truly there must be a Santa Claus," Dallai said.

The young patients and their parents would agree.

ROCK-OUT FOR HANDICAPPED

Crutches and braces were almost forgotten Friday as more than 25 handicapped teen-agers grooved to the Turns of Tyme band at the Long Beach Crippled Children's Society. Joe Rogers, right, "Teen Time" director at the society, and assistant Randy Borie, left, show Ron Muller a new step. Rogers, who planned the dance, wants handicapped teens "to be able to do anything other teen-agers are doing." So far, they've held slumber parties, beach outings and trips to the circus. Coming up are Christmas shopping excursions and a visit to Disneyland. But Friday night it was rock music and light shows—and, Rogers said, everyone had a groovy time.

3 'Moderates' Win in CSLB Election

A backlash against far-left student activism put three more political moderates in Student Senate seats in record balloting Friday at California State College at Long Beach.

Candidates of the Student University Committee — which included several members of the activist Students for a Democratic Society — finished seventh and ninth.

Student elections officials said 2,440 voters turned out in two days of balloting to elect three senators from a field of 13 candidates. It was the highest participation in numbers of voters and candidates in any fall senatorial election.

Taking their seats on the 18-member Student Senate will be Don Alaimo, Bob McEwan and Larry Goldstein.

Alaimo, an incumbent pre-law major, favors a black studies major, off-campus housing aid to both black and white students, and college decentralization.

McEwan, a finance major who campaigned on the "silent majority" slogan, wants to improve campus-community relationships.

Goldstein, a political science major, says he favors the "status quo" in student-administration relationships.

Steve Watson, a leader of the Students for a Democratic Society who headed the Student University Committee slate, campaigned on a 10-point platform for "full student and faculty control of the college."

$10,000 Lost in Home Burglary

Mrs. Rita Stafford shouldn't have left the back door unlocked when she went shopping Friday.

Burglars entered and took $10,000 in $100 bills and 50 silver dollars, police said.

Officers Ed Grant and Russ Graves said Mrs. Stafford, of 180 E. Bixby Road, told them she withdrew the money from a bank to buy Christmas presents for her 15 grandchildren.

Mrs. Stafford, who went shopping at about 1 p.m., returned four hours later to discover prowlers had ransacked her bedroom and stolen the money from a night stand.

Police said the victim told them the thieves apparently entered through an unlocked kitchen door.

L.B. Bridge Player Ties for 5th Place

Richard Hull, of 5047 Gardena Ave., tied for fifth place in Torrey Pines Pairs bridge competition with another man at Coronado Friday.

A Visit to Santa Still Tops

The visit to Long Beach Airport was great. And the picnic in Lakewood's San Martin Park was fun.

But kids — especially at Christmas — relate easily to toys and that's what they were doing Friday as 38 Operation Head Start youngsters from Long Beach ranged through a Lakewood department store.

Impatiently, they told Santa what they wanted, then headed for the aisles and aisles of toys.

And found them.

Reluctantly, hours later, they left the never-never land and headed home.

To wait. For Christmas morn.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Excellent begins early; people you have not seen lately come with new friends in tow. Go along with the social whirls but find time somewhere for a solitary rest, even a nap.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Unexpected, pleasant incidents pop up in this peaceful Sunday. Plan your health program; seek better advice and more understanding. Enjoy a social evening.
